Solemn service of rededication was conducted by Most Rev. Harold Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia last night to an overflow congregation at St. John's, Quebec and Mason streets. The church was gutted by fire last year. (See story over leaf).—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman).

Envoy Takes Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department said yesterday it hopes to resume exploratory, ambassador-level Berlin talks with Russia "in the very near future."

Meanwhile, a department spokesman said, officials are preparing for a new and intensified phase of Allied planning in Washington during the next few weeks.

CONSULTATIONS
Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Russia, has been here for consultations during the past week and plans to be back in Moscow next Tuesday. That day marks the opening of the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress, at which Premier Khrushchev is expected to make some major speeches on Berlin.

President Kennedy told his press conference Thursday he hoped Thompson would try to sound out the Kremlin on Berlin, taking up where recent talks here with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko left off.

ALLIES TO MEET
State department spokesman Lincoln White said top Berlin experts from the foreign offices of Britain, West Germany and France may come here soon to join Allied strategy talks which have been going on at the ambassador level nearly every day.

Conscripts To Stay On?

BONN (UPI)—Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss disclosed yesterday that West Germany's military conscription period will probably be extended soon from 12 to 18 months.

The government has already retained for three more months the 30,000 soldiers who were to have concluded their military duty Oct. 1.

U.S. May Restart A-Tests in Air

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The United States said yesterday it will be forced to re-examine its position on nuclear tests in the atmosphere if the Soviet Union persists with its current series.

Ambassador Arthur Dean said the world no longer can put its trust in a voluntary moratorium because of Russia's "callous disregard of its obligations" in resuming nuclear explosions in the air.

ONLY INSURANCE
Dean said the only insurance against the threat of nuclear war and spreading radioactivity fallout from tests is an international test ban treaty under effective controls.

READY TO SIGN
"The United States and the United Kingdom are ready to sign such a treaty today, tomorrow, any time," he said. "If the Soviet Union agrees to such a treaty with us, then all tests of all kinds—in the air, underground, under water—can cease at once, and further nuclear risks to humanity will also cease."

NO ACTION TAKEN
Dean spoke to the General Assembly's political committee during a procedural debate on whether to consider U.S. and British proposals on nuclear tests before a Soviet proposal on general and complete disarmament. The committee adjourned.

Radio Reports Gaglardi Thinking About Quitting

VANCOUVER (CP)—Radio station CKNW quotes Highway Minister Gaglardi as saying he is thinking seriously of dropping out of politics.

Reporter Al Davidson said Mr. Gaglardi made the statement in a tape-recorded interview during the last week.

He quoted the minister as saying he would not quit "in the heat of battle," but would give it serious consideration after his trial in Kamloops on a charge of driving without due consideration for the rights and safety of others.

The trial date is to be set Oct. 18. Mr. Gaglardi left here Wednesday on a Canadian Pacific Airlines jet flight to Tokyo.

Cut Profits Or Perish Firms Told

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston warned yesterday that lumber operators may have to cut their profits on foreign sales and come up with higher quality products at minimum prices for home use if the B.C. lumber industry is to survive.

"With at least 40 cents of every income dollar earned by all British Columbians from all sources within the province originating in the forests our dependency on the successful marketing of our forest products is so crucial as to be almost frightening," he told members of Victoria Rotary Club.

The critical nature of this dependency was greatly intensified by the fact that to an overpowering extent forest trade was dependent upon the export market, said the minister.

"In other words we are required to trade in world markets over which we have no control," he said.

The provincial standard of living would be cut in half without the forest industry, he said.

'ONLY HOPE'
B.C. could not hope for preferential treatment in the highly competitive forest products field outside Canada, continued Mr. Williston.

"This is accentuated by the possibility of Great Britain being unable to continue Commonwealth preferences after her entry into the European Common Market," he said.

GREATEST CHALLENGE
Individual buyers of B.C. forest products in foreign markets were interested in only one thing — the lowest price for the highest quality.

"In that simple equation lies B.C.'s greatest economic challenge to survival and at the same time, it is no less of a challenge to Canada's position as a major world trader," said Mr. Williston.

Japan had the most rapidly rising standard of living in the world but was a small buyer of B.C. forest products because it was hindered by "a myriad of legislative restrictions" in her trading with Canada, he added.

Refugees Survive Fusillade

BERLIN (UPI)—Nine East Germans braved Communist gunfire at dawn today and escaped to West Berlin by crashing their speeding truck into a barbed wire barricade on the border.

The refugees leaped out of the truck when it got stuck at the barricade and ran across the frontier into the American sector.

250 SHOTS FIRED
West Berlin police reported that one of the refugees was injured by the impact of the crash. Communist police fired about 250 shots with rifles and machineguns at the fleeing refugees, but none was hit.

The incident occurred at the Zehlendorf border crossing. "The Communists fired at everything that moved," said a West Berlin policeman.

BOYS SNEAK PAST
Two East German boys, aged 14 and 16, crossed into the French sector during the night by sneaking past Communist border guards and under the barbed wire entanglement in a style.

Fallout Affects Food As Red Tests Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia exploded another nuclear device in the atmosphere yesterday as radioactive fallout from the 20-odd Soviet blasts began showing up in food supplies.

The public health service reported amounts of radioactive iodine 131 found in milk samples from major cities in Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi and Missouri.

Radioactive iodine in food is of special concern because it settles in the thyroid of children, among others, and may cause cancer if it is present for a considerable time.

Costly Model of Fraser Torn Up for UBC Cars

VANCOUVER (CP)—A $500,000 scale model of the Fraser River which gained world-wide fame when it was erected at the University of British Columbia, is being torn up to provide more parking space at the university.

The mammoth scale model, occupying a space about 10,000 square feet and which attracted the attention of engineers from many countries, is under the hammer. The model depicts the lower 56 miles of the Fraser. It has long been regarded as one of the most important research projects in Canada, detailed down to electronically-controlled tides, currents and sands. International engineers applied knowledge to projects in many parts of the world.

Furore Expected Among Officials

By ED COSGROVE

The appeal of Capt. Geoffrey D'Arcy against dismissal from his industrial arts teaching job at Colquitz School has been upheld by a special appeal board, the Colonist learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

Capt. D'Arcy was dismissed for failing to follow the provincial education department curriculum.

It was disclosed that the three-member board, chaired by Vancouver lawyer Harold Tupper, has recommended the board's recommendation will reach the desk of Education Minister Leslie Peterson today, that Capt. D'Arcy be reinstated.

Officials have remained mum, refusing to either confirm or deny the report. But it is expected the board's recommendation will reach the desk of Education Minister Leslie Peterson today.

Decision Unanimous

The new recommendation from the Tupper board of reference will probably go before the cabinet within a week.

While such recommendations are usually followed, the cabinet could conceivably reverse the board's decision and uphold Capt. D'Arcy's dismissal.

The board's decision is expected to cause a furore among school board officials. The fired teacher also refused comment until such time as the report of his reinstatement has been confirmed.

The 52-year-old teacher, who lives at 1321 Vimy, has once before successfully appealed a dismissal by the school board.

The Colonist learned that the board's decision to recommend reinstatement of Capt. D'Arcy was unanimous. And indications are that the board may have felt that the announced reason for firing the teacher—failure to abide by the curriculum prescribed by the department of education—may not have been the reason for his dismissal.

Approach Criticized

Capt. D'Arcy's appeal before the special board began late in August and lasted until Sept. 9. More than 15 witnesses appeared before the board to testify.

Their evidence was that Capt. D'Arcy had implemented a more theoretical approach to the study of industrial arts drafting at the Grade 7 level. Witnesses included senior high school teachers who told the hearing that pupils graduating to their classes from Capt. D'Arcy's class apparently had little practical knowledge of the use of drafting instruments.

The battery of witnesses against the teacher also included Col. Harold J. Strong, government inspector of technical classes, Greater Victoria school superintendent John Gough and the school board's arts supervisor, J. H. Dalglish.

'Refused to Change'

They told the hearing that Capt. D'Arcy had refused to alter his method of teaching to conform with their interpretation of the curriculum suggested by the provincial department of education.

In his own defence, Capt. D'Arcy said he had not changed the intent of the syllabus, but had attempted to instill in his students a "more educationally sound" knowledge of the subject, rather than "mechanistic and superficial" skills in the use of instruments.

His lawyer, J. Alan Baker, told the appeal board that if the dismissal was upheld, it would mean the end of a teaching career that spanned 32 years.

But also at stake during the hearing was the question of whether teachers are bound to the letter of the suggested syllabus laid out by the department of education or whether they could put their own interpretations on the suggestions.

Capt. D'Arcy figured in similar proceedings in 1955 when he was fired by the school board on the grounds that he showed insolence in letters to Mr. Gough.

After a prolonged hearing before another board of reference, he was reinstated by the provincial cabinet.

Rededication Crowds Historic City Church

"We are ready to proceed to the Dedication."

Accompanying his words with a resounding enthusiastic triple rap on the door of St. John the Divine Church, Most Rev. Harold Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, opened rededication services of one of Victoria's oldest churches.

More than 650 parishioners and special guests were on hand for the colorful, two-hour service of rededication for the church that was gutted by fire on Dec. 9, 1960.

FOLDING CHAIRS

Some of the overflow crowd was seated on folding chairs set up at the back of the church when the regular seating space for 650 was filled half an hour in advance of the service.

Dignitaries present included Works Minister W. N. Chant and Mrs. Chant, Mayor Percy Scurrell and Mrs. Scurrell, Rear Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes and Mrs. Finch-Noyes, Rear Admiral J. C. Hibbard and Mrs. Hibbard, Brig. C. J. Milley of the Salvation Army

Archbishop Raps On Door

and Mrs. Milley, Police Chief John Blackstock and Mrs. Blackstock, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Tyrwhitt Drake and Mrs. Tyrwhitt Drake and Mrs. Bayliss and Mrs. Bayliss.

MET AT DOOR

The solemn and colorful ceremony was preceded by a procession. Then Archbishop Sexton and his retinue were met at the door of the church by Canon George Biddle and his churchwardens.

"Most Reverend Father in God, we pray You to rededicate this church," intoned Canon Biddle in the age-old ritual of the church.

RAPPED ON DOOR

The archbishop rapped three times on the door with his pastoral staff—and the ceremony began.

Parishioners generally were pleasantly surprised with both the speed of rebuilding and the finished product.

"It seems bigger," said one. "And brighter—yet it has preserved its historic appearance," added a companion.

WINDOWS ORDERED

Still to be completed are replacement of stained glass windows destroyed in the fire. New windows have been ordered from England.

Also coming is a pipe organ, which will be installed next Easter. Meanwhile, the church will make do with the electric organ that was used for services in the church hall.

NEW CHAPEL

Reconstruction has allowed for a number of improvements to the original interior design. These include a new chapel to the right of the choir; a new loft for the junior choir and enlargement of the basement for general use.

First regular church service will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. The congregation, led by Canon Biddle, will observe Harvest Thanksgiving.

Your Good Health

No Spike Heels for Damsel Yet Feet Are Killing Her

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD
"Dear Dr. Molner: The joints below both of my big toes have become enlarged. What causes these bunions? Is there any cure or any way I can prevent them from increasing in size?"

"For 10 years I have worn pumps with rounded toes and a walking heel exclusively; no pointed toes and spike heels for me!"—Mrs. M. K.
You could call bunions "bursitis of the big toe." There is irritation at this point. The joint thickens and becomes deformed. An enlarged bursa, or fluid sac, forms.

The usual causes of bunions are being overweight or wearing shoes that are too short, too tight, too narrow or of a shape that doesn't fit.

Mrs. M. K., obviously a bright woman, has eliminated the usual answers. I shortened her heels, but she's 115 pounds and five feet six, and that certainly isn't obese!

ONLY CAUSE

So what else can cause bunions? Irritation from continued pressure is the only cause.

So I have but one answer in this case—unless she wears shoes that are too small—she may have a weak arch, one which may not have been noticeable.

So have the arch checked and perhaps then having an appropriate arch support fitted.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes long raised ridges in the fingernails?"—B. M. P.
Usually some defect in the growth zone of the nail bed—where the nail is formed.

Often this may be the result of some minor injury in manicuring. Ridding occurs as we grow older.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My problem is a rash. It starts at the hairline and spreads over my face and neck. It lasts for a couple of weeks. It always reappears again. I am very nervous when I have it."

Mrs. F. C.
A rash that recurs leads one to suspect an allergy to some preparation—materials used in waving, setting a wave or something in a shampoo. Watch to see whether there is some such connection.

For another thing, the nervousness may have a bearing, suggesting a skin condition which is touched off by periods of nerves or being upset.

Ready to Talk Peace Khrushchev Writes

Back on Job

After long delay because of illness, Elizabeth Taylor is back on set of movie "Cleopatra" at a new location—Rome. Star, whose absence was costly to producers, is wearing one of many wigs she'll use in title role as ancient queen of Egypt. (AP Photofax.)

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev said yesterday he was ready to meet with the Western leaders to "settle the present difficult situation" facing the world.

Khrushchev's statement was made in a letter to Katsu Yasui, chairman of the Japanese Council Against Nuclear Weapons, and published by the official Tass news agency.

POSITION OUTLINED
At the same time Khrushchev wrote another letter—to a group of British Labour party members of Parliament—outlining the Soviet position for settling the Berlin and German problems.

Khrushchev said in his letter to the Britons that an East-West settlement on Berlin should "ensure guaranteed access to Berlin."

FIRST REITERATION
Publication of the two letters came shortly after the return to Moscow of Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko from his talks with President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan.

It was the first reiteration since the Washington and London talks of the Kremlin's stated willingness to continue to seek a peaceful solution to the Berlin problem.

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist police shot a West German reporter in the stomach and kidnapped him yesterday at Gifhorn, about 100 miles west of Berlin. Ten others invaded West Berlin early yesterday in search of one of four Communist policemen who defected during the night.

The Dortmund newspaper Westfälische Rundschau said its chief reporter Kurt Lichtenstein was shot and then dragged across the border into the Soviet zone.

DRAGGED BACK

It said Lichtenstein had gone to the border near the town of Gifhorn and was talking with East German farm laborers when a Communist policeman opened fire from 70 yards, hitting him in the stomach. Gifhorn is in northwest Germany near Brunswick.

Another policeman dashed across the border road into West Germany, grabbed the fallen reporter and dragged him back to the Communist side.

CROSSED BORDER

In the Berlin incident the 10 policemen boldly crossed the border but retreated when seven Western policemen and a police dog rushed to the border area and demanded they leave.

Tension flared last night at the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint—the only East Berlin entry point still open to the Allies. An American staff car entered the crossing point just as a West Berlin loudspeaker opened up. It was feared the Communists would close the border, but moments later they waved the official car through.

CROWD WATCHES

A crowd of 200 watched the West Berlin war of nerves manoeuvre. Shortly after midnight another 200 West Germans as sembled at the Overbaum Bridge, near which West Berliners recently erected a wooden cross in memory of two unknown East Berliners who died in a canal while trying to escape.

'MURDERERS' CRY

The Communists attempted to frighten the crowd away by bringing up a water cannon truck. The crowd became unruly and joined in the cry of "murderers, murderers." The Communists threw two or three tear gas grenades and turned on a searchlight.

West Berlin police arrived and dispersed the crowd. West Berlin police said the Communist police tossed a note over the East-West dividing wall warning that six bombs would explode in Berlin's Mosby criminal court.

A search of the court revealed no bombs.

Halved Tea Break Halts Assembly Line

LONDON (Reuters)—A strike over tea virtually halted all car production yesterday at the Ford plant in near by Dagenham.

The trouble began when 250 men staked a wildcat walkout in protest against their morning tea break being cut to five from 10 minutes.

Supplies to other plant workers were cut to a trickle and 2,000 men were laid off midway.

About 2,000 men were made idle Wednesday by a similar walkout, led by shop stewards.

Shetland Offers Haven To Refugee Islanders

LERWICK, Scotland (Reuters)—The population of the lonely Shetland Islands off the north coast of Scotland Thursday extended an invitation to refugees from the volcano-blasted island of Tristan da Cunha to come and live with them.

The 300 residents were evacuated from their tiny South Atlantic island after volcanic eruptions three days ago. They are to be resettled in Britain.

Most of the islanders have led a sheltered life away from civilization and there has been some speculation in Britain on the problem of resettlement.

Franco Frees His Foes

MADRID (UPI)—Spain announced yesterday it is freeing immediately all political and criminal prisoners who have served more than 20 years.

Details of the blanket pardon, announced by chief of state Generalissimo Franco earlier this month, were revealed in the official state gazette.

The pardon also cuts terms of up to two years by half and over two years by one-eighth. The pardon, however, does not apply to convicted murderers whose death sentences have been commuted to life imprisonment.

The pardons were decided by a government meeting in Burgos during celebrations observing the 25th anniversary of Franco's assumption of power.

Hull has had 23 confirmed cases of polio. Several more are suspected and are under observation.

Boy Outraces Four Boats In Third Berlin Escape

BERLIN (AP)—Juergen Schaefer, a 16-year-old East German, is safe again in West Berlin after his third escape from his Communist-held homeland. The third time he and two young comrades in a motor launch outraced four boatloads of gun-firing pursuers.

Juergen fled to West Germany last year but returned to the east zone after hearing his widowed mother was ill.

He crossed over again last January and reported once more to the West Berlin reception centre which flew him to West Germany.

Schaefer returned to West Berlin in September. Curiously, he said, drew him for a look at a barbed wire fence dividing the city. East Berlin guards spotted him and forced him to crawl through the wire to the east sector.

His latest escape was made in a stolen Red Cross launch.

'Savage Atrocities' Alleged in Rhodesia

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (Reuters)—African nationalist leader Kenneth Kaunda, Thursday accused government forces of "murder, arson, plunder and savage atrocities" in Northern Rhodesia.

"I know the charge I make is a serious one but it is true," he told reporters on the eve of his departure for a Pan-African conference at Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika.

"Whole villages have been razed to the ground. Foodstuffs, including goats, sheep, and fowl, have been taken away," Kaunda said.

An Old Game

ONE OF THE fine old Canadian customs which has never fallen into disuse is the game of criticizing the government. In many instances its continued practice has done much to preserve the art of conversation in Canada—an art once described as talking knowledgeably on a subject about which one knows nothing.

However, though the general populace may apply this brutally critical definition to itself with good grace, it certainly does not behave the disgruntled politicians of the opposition to adopt it quite so liberally and literally as they have been doing during the past few months in playing their favorite game.

To them the rules of playing criticize-the-government must be stringently based on facts and figures. After all, as self-confessed professionals they must observe the regulations of play carefully. If they do not, they are not likely to make much headway either against their opponents or among the rest of us amateurs.

As an instance of these questionable tactics is their constant echoing of Mr. Lionel Chevrier's fictional analysis of the present government's advances in the field of widening Canada's trade within the Commonwealth. According to Mr. Chevrier and his associates, Ottawa has failed completely to follow up the widely publicized suggestion by the Prime Minister that Canada should shift its trading pattern so that more of our trade would be going to the Commonwealth and other nations of the world.

At that time Mr. Diefenbaker mentioned a figure of 15 per cent as a target at which to aim.

Recently released statistics have now proven that the target was almost reached—near enough at least, to give the lie to the opposition contention that the policy has not succeeded.

The fact is that in comparing the past four years under the Conservative government with the previous four under the Liberals, Canada's average exports to the Commonwealth are up by 14 per cent.

On the import side, for the same years, there was also recorded an average increase of $173,000,000 a year—or 27 per cent.

During the same period Canadian exports to the United States rose by 16 per cent under the Conservative administration. Imports, on the other hand, rose by only nine per cent.

These are facts which cannot be disputed, and though they may continue to be ignored by the opposition professionals they can hardly fail to impress upon the public the truth that the government policy has resulted not only in strengthening Canada's present economy but added immeasurable power to Canadian representations in any discussions aimed at setting future patterns for Commonwealth or international trade.

The Rose or the Name

A ROSE CALLED something else would smell as sweet, as the poet affirmed, but some federal civil servants in Ottawa seem to think their status would be increased if they were called government employees. They would like to be so designated.

This is very much a status age, when fancy titles are fashioned for old-time but honorable occupations. Just as though the rose counted less than its name. Whether a civil servant would rise in public estimation by being known as a government employee instead of by his traditional title is very much a moot point.

Time was certainly, and one had not deemed the time past, when to be a civil servant was considered a rather enviable position. It connoted a class of individuals entrusted with the administration of a country's business. It stood for certain qualities of education, knowledge, and integrity. It had a cachet.

The top-level civil servant in most countries, for instance, was regarded as a figure of importance. This attitude permeated downwards, and a civil servant of almost any level was recognized as belonging to a special national group.

One wonders therefore at the desire for a change. It was said by one Ottawa civil servant that this term takes away from the good job most civil servants do. This is an argument hard to follow, for the term government employee is so all-embracing it may include all kinds of employees, some far removed from the usual concept of civil servant.

The latter is one rose that surely doesn't need its name changed.

A Pointer

ANOTHER Soviet intellectual has defected to the West, this time a scientist who took the chance of a visit to Holland to seek asylum there. The West has had instances of defection in the opposite direction, but this latest Russian instance does point up a weakness within the Soviet system—its control of the individual mind.

At its face value the current defector's reason may seem none too strong; that he couldn't pursue his pet scientific project. Even in democratic countries everyone is not always free simply to follow a personal bent. But as a scientist his was the humanitarian aim of removing a cancerous element from radioactive fallout and this doubtless increased his sense of rebellion.

The freedom he sought was thus one that gave unrestricted rein to the flow of imagination and mental effort.

This is the area in which perhaps the future of domestic Russian life may be changed. The force of educational evolution is bound to have its say.

Russia has accomplished marvels in the spread of universal education and higher learning within a few short decades. Its school programs are intensively pursued and it picks its smartest students and reserves for them the best training. Thus it has reached its present powerful national capacity.

The drawback to its system is that individual expression is harnessed to political ideology. In the arts, the sciences, and all other intellectual areas there is restriction on the free play of ideas and individual concept. The mental as well as the physical contribution of Soviet citizens is geared to the promotion of Soviet policy, national and foreign.

It is this form of repression that is bound increasingly to irritate more and more of the best educated minds of the Soviet Union. It is the history of all countries that as a nation becomes better educated—a necessary corollary of national progress and prosperity—men begin to think for themselves and in time compel a change in principles that hamper their development.

It is here perhaps that the best hope for the future of world peace may lie; that as Russians by educational process absorb wider ranges of thought and idea they will force a reorientation of policy embracing foreign as well as domestic aims.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."
By TOM TAYLOR

IF you are a young man wondering why you have to work for a living don't feel too badly; your release is on the way. Automation will soon allow you to sit back in an easy chair and look at the sky, your mind a blank. You won't need a mind any more, however, as the blankness is no cause for unease.

The end result could give an intelligent human the shudders, but that is a thought which need not intrude.

This, they tell us, is the welfare state, and it is just round the corner. In the leisure age, it is inevitable, as the pointer of existent feather-bedding should make clear even to a dullard. Soon the five-day week will give way to the five-day weekend, and the logical conclusion to this kind of progression, to the no-work-at-all week. Presumably there will always be a few specialists, or slaves, to tend the automatic machines about to take over all work, but these may be disregarded.

For the mass millions of the generally an earthly beatitude is promised.

At least such is the scientific vision, and it is averred, this is a good thing. Leisure is a splendid goal, the best and end-all of mankind even if until recent times man has regarded work as an honorable pursuit. Labor has been a mistake, apparently, since the moment that Adam, having misused HIS leisure, began to till the ground. Poor chap, no one in his day had invented a machine with buttons to press, so that he might savor a sundae while merely extending a forefinger.

I suppose the first example of automation was the bow and arrow, when one man set up an enemy 100 strong but armed only with flint. Automation is the use of instruments to do the work of two, ten or a thousand men. Much more, in fact, as we realize when we remember that a 190,000-horsepower station substitutes for 190,000 horses. Thinking of what happened to Dobbin this might be a queer analogy when you relate it to human beings. But we are assured by the automationists not to worry; automation in one form or another has been creeping on us for centuries with no untoward consequences, as of course it has.

The only disquiet seems to be that, like Sputniks and guided missiles, it is now moving immoderately in a rush.

There is, however, as I mentioned at the beginning, a saving grace to the machines which, they tell us with a straight face, can even now out-think us and unlike the fallible human are not prone to error; assuming, that is, that the human who puts the answers into the machine doesn't let his concentration slip when so doing. The promised beatitude of leisure will offset all else, however, and any quaint notion that work is good for the mind, or the soul, can be discarded as old-fashioned.

How practically no work at all can produce the high-level brains we are also told are needed these crucial days is a question that probably should not be raised. In any case backward nations which know not automation can be relied on to solve this point when, with malice aforethought, they see the recurrent figures of the leisure era.

Report From Ottawa

Will Red China Pay for Wheat?

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

AT the time that the Canadian authorities arranged those huge sales of wheat to Communist China, questions were raised in the House of Commons about the latter regime's credit rating.

The Liberals raised no objection to the sales in themselves. Like the government, they were keenly aware of the importance of wheat sales to the prairie farm economy.

They did ask, however, for a disclosure of all steps taken by the Government in the matter to protect the position of the Canadian public as a whole. Suppose—just suppose for a moment now—that Communist China either couldn't or wouldn't pay in full. What then? They weren't suggesting for a moment that such a development was at all likely. But they raised it as a kind of hypothetical proposition.

With prairie votes in mind, of course, they were extremely careful to raise it in a delicate fashion.

The government, dedicated to the proposition that prairie farmers grow wheat only so that the Canadian Wheat Board may sell it for them at the best possible price and with a minimum of delay, pooh-poohed faint-hearted expressions of concern. They were sure, they said, that all would work out for the best. And in the meantime, just look how pleased the western wheat producers were with the sales.

He doubted that China could or would pay.

"The Chinese, even if they are sincere, will have the greatest difficulty in paying," he said.

And there was just the faintest suggestion that he was not too sure in his own mind that the Chinese bargainers had been honest as might have been hoped.

Back at the ranch, meanwhile, the Canadian government affected to be unimpressed by Economist Clark's gloomy forebodings.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, a key figure in the big Canadian wheat deal, expressed confidence that Red China would not only pay, and on time, but would be buying more wheat from Canada.

Mr. Hamilton, apparently, had no hard-and-fast reasons to advance in support of his optimism. But there were certain intangibles to be considered.

"I think," Mr. Hamilton said, "my music is best understood by children and animals—Mr. Igor Stravinsky."

I am not frightened by profits. No one should ever be frightened of profits. Profitability is the only measure of success.—Sir Robert Renwick, chairman of Associated TV.

I have a preference for simple words like right and wrong, and I detest the word anti-social. My hankies rise when I read references to anti-social conduct.—Mr. R. V. Cusack, QC.

What we are rather tending to do in all our various specialist activities and walks of life is to destroy the wholeness of a person.—Sir John Wolfenden.

We notice how the whole quality of the urban scene is worsening so that more and more people become spectators of two dimensions—the telly—instead of participants in three.—Sir William Holford.

The Packback

The Short Route

By GREGORY CLARK

ONE of the characters with whom I am in the habit of going fishing, bird watching or attending farm auctions, insists upon doing the driving in his car. And he is one of those experts who always knows a short route to anywhere, which will save eighteen minutes.

By sticking to the paved highways with clearly marked sign posts that tell how many miles to where, with unmistakable markers indicating curves, hills and places where it is wise to go slow, we would arrive at our destination not merely safely, but in good health and in a benign state of nerves.

But to save eighteen minutes, he takes a shorter route down side roads, around townships, across waste lands and through swamps, up hill, down dale, around unexpected corners, overhanging the edges of ditches to avoid hay wagons, scaring the wits out of chickens in slumberous hamlets, overtaking the cars of local gentry out for a twenty mile an hour ramble, and arriving, sure enough, at our destination eighteen minutes ahead of time.

It takes more than the eighteen minutes for our quivering nerves to subside.

Russia has been selling gold on the London market to obtain the convertible currencies with which its grain bills must be paid.

Experts in the field have reported, as a kind of footnote to the gold sales, that Red China's gold is of excellent quality. The very best it surpasses in quality in fact, the high quality gold that South Africa makes available to the world, they say.

However that may be, authorities here in Ottawa believe that Red China bargained in good faith for Canadian wheat, will make a great effort to pay as required by the terms, and is already trying to round up the hard cash with which to do just this. And in the meantime, the government is keeping its fingers crossed.

There have, however, been indications that an effort is already being made by the authorities on the Chinese mainland to turn the trick.

Reliable reports have it that

As Chicago Sees It

Renewing the Mandate

By ROBERT MCKENZIE,
in The Chicago Sun-Times

JOHN DIEFENBAKER'S Conservative government is expected by political experts to win the general election, likely to be held within the next year.

This view is generally held even though Canada has suffered considerable unemployment (ranging between 5 per cent and 11 per cent) during the three and a half years that Prime Minister Diefenbaker has been in office.

The explanation for Diefenbaker's continued strength certainly does not lie in the administrative skill and general competence of the government.

What, then, are Diefenbaker's continuing sources of strength? Above all else, his own superb technical equipment as a party leader. He is an undistinguished chief executive, but a really outstanding politician. Canada is an exceedingly difficult country to govern, with her profound cultural, religious and regional differences, precariously balanced economy, and awkward geopolitical position.

Diefenbaker has the obvious advantage of his towering majority in the Commons, where he holds well over three-quarters of the seats as a result of the greatest electoral landslide in Canadian history. Diefenbaker swept the Social Credit Party out of Ottawa (although it still holds two provincial governments and cannot be wholly written off) and he reduced the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation (CCF) to eight MPs. The Liberals came back with one-quarter the seat strength of the Conservatives, but with the minor parties all but annihilated, they seemed to provide the only possible alternative government.

The Conservatives had done their job so well that it appeared henceforth the Liberals would be the sole beneficiaries of Conservative unpopularity.

Two things have happened to upset this calculation. Lester Pearson (who, for age and other reasons, can hardly survive another electoral defeat) has not so far shown the subtle combination of qualities required to lead a successful national party in Canada. The parallel with Adlai Stevenson is almost too painful for Pearson's admirers to contemplate. Both men are intellectuals in politics, preoccupied with the appalling problems of the contemporary world.

Neither gives the impression that he enjoys the political game, which must be won at the grass roots level before a politician can have a chance to play the role of statesman.

It was at least possible that Pearson might have reacted to the Liberal Party on New Deal Frontier lines as a vigorous part of the very moderate left, able to rely on the overwhelming support of the lower income groups and the ethnic minorities.

But Pearson has failed thus far and the measure of his failure is the success of the socialists of the CCF and the politically conscious trade unionists in launching some weeks back the New Democratic Party (NDP). They have obtained as national leader Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, perhaps the most successful politician the socialist movement has produced anywhere. (He has won five successive elections during 17 years of unbroken power in Saskatchewan.)

Diefenbaker may well be on safe ground in proclaiming, as he already has, that the next elections will be fought on the issue of "free enterprise versus socialism." Somewhat surprisingly Douglas accepted this challenge, in his first address as leader of the NDP. Canada is an intensely conservative nation which, curiously enough, is quite willing that its government should embark on radical experiments. But it is doubtful whether the same social experiments when collectively labelled "socialism" will prove so readily acceptable.

One snowman, as reported by Prince Peter of Greece, was actually captured in Sikliti. Large ape-like creatures were seen drinking at a cistern during the night, so the villagers doped the water with fermented liquor and captured one in a drunken stupor. The animal was lashed to a pole, but on recovering managed to burst its bonds and escape.

Attempts to identify the snowman from alleged physical remains have all ended in failure of impasse, culminating in the declaration that the famous Kumlung scalp borrowed by Sir Edmund Hillary was moulded from the skin of a goat antelope. However, some still unidentified mites were obtained from the Kumlung scalp, and these may yet solve the riddle.

Though the footprints are the only sole evidence, and despite Hillary's perverse view that all the described footprints could have been made by foxes, Dr. Osman Hill believes that there is in fact a creature in the Himalayas unknown to science.

It is probably plantigrade (walking on the soles of its feet) and sometimes at least walks upright and jumps. Most probably it lives in small family groups in the dense rhododendron thickets in the lower parts of the valleys. Here and not among the snowy future explorers should seek the snowman.

The Snowman

Does He Live?

By RICHARD FITTER

WHILE zoologists stubbornly refuse, in public, to admit the existence of the Loch Ness Monster, they have always looked more kindly on its first cousin, the Abominable Snowman.

For a fresh assessment of the evidence for the existence of this enigmatic creature we now have to thank Dr. W. C. Osman Hill, Professor of the Zoological Society of London.

To start with, it seems that the local inhabitants know not one snowman but three: the bear-sized dru-teh, the man-sized meh-teh, and the yeh-teh, anglicized as Yeti, which is the size of a fourteen-year-old boy. It is not known whether these are three separate creatures or different sexes or ages of the same creature.

The meh-teh is the one which was unwittingly responsible for the picturesque name of the whole group, for a cable in 1921 corrupted the Tibetan words for "man-like wild creature" into "dirty, snow man."

This initial error has also probably been responsible for making people look for the snowman in the wrong place, viz., in the snow. As Dr. Osman Hill points out, there is no real reason to suppose that the creature actually does live in the eternal snows. The warmer valleys below are much more likely habitats, but occasionally it crosses the snowfields in going from one valley to another.

Any amount of evidence for the existence of snowmen has been put forward: eyewitness accounts of sightings, photographs and plaster casts of footprints, and various kinds of physical remains, including even parasites. But not much of it stands up to scientific scrutiny.

The best evidence is still the trails of footprints which have been seen on almost every Himalayan expedition since 1887. Examination of the photographs and casts of the more recent ones, especially Eric Shipton's of 1951, incline most zoologists to suggest that they were made by a large primate (man, ape, monkey) rather than a bear.

Nearly all of the eyewitness accounts of sightings are unsatisfactory in some way or other; the most convincing seems to be the flat-footed gorilla-like creature with powerful chest and long arms seen by the English explorer H. Knight in Tibet about 1913.

One snowman, as reported by Prince Peter of Greece, was actually captured in Sikliti. Large ape-like creatures were seen drinking at a cistern during the night, so the villagers doped the water with fermented liquor and captured one in a drunken stupor. The animal was lashed to a pole, but on recovering managed to burst its bonds and escape.

Attempts to identify the snowman from alleged physical remains have all ended in failure of impasse, culminating in the declaration that the famous Kumlung scalp borrowed by Sir Edmund Hillary was moulded from the skin of a goat antelope. However, some still unidentified mites were obtained from the Kumlung scalp, and these may yet solve the riddle.

Though the footprints are the only sole evidence, and despite Hillary's perverse view that all the described footprints could have been made by foxes, Dr. Osman Hill believes that there is in fact a creature in the Himalayas unknown to science.

Sailors Recovering After Ship Outbreak

Seven crewmen of the destroyer escort HMCS Ottawa, in hospital ashore at Esquimalt after a large number of the ship's company fell ill at sea with gastroenteritis, were reported making "routine recoveries" last night.

ENGINE TROUBLE

The ship carrying the sick sailors returned to port Wednesday night with engine trouble, medical officers went on board to treat the men and the ship's company was quarantined overnight.

The Ottawa had been engaged in exercises at sea with units of the U.S. and Canadian Pacific fleets.

NO NEW OUTBREAKS

Naval medical authorities said yesterday no new outbreaks of the intestinal ailment had appeared.

The exercise in which the Ottawa was involved ended yesterday with return of Pacific Fleet units to Esquimalt. Destroyers Assiniboine, Skeena, Margaree and Fraser returned in the morning.

Fleet maintenance vessel Cape Breton berthed at noon. Frigates Sussexvale, Beacon Hill and Jonquiere returned in the afternoon and their sister ships Ste. Therese, New Glasgow and Antigonish arrived in the evening. The submarine Grise is scheduled to return Saturday morning.

A Rest for Santa

With special days and holidays so highly commercialized now, I don't think this letter is any too early for a plea from a mother of young children, that Santa Claus be given a longer rest by the department stores. With the anticipated weeks of shopping by adults, little thought is given to the children's real enjoyment and pleasure by the stores at Christmas time. No dazzling toyland arcade to widen the eyes and make little hearts beat faster anymore, just dirty boxes piled in front of counter after counter of jammed-up toys ready for a quick sale!

So I say let Santa Claus rest until mid-December before his official visit, and by so doing, cut out weeks of anxiety and frustration for the children who are such admirers of his, and to whom one week is like one month.

To Be or Not to Be

The proposals for defence and precautions now being broadcast and published. Naturally interest me as the chairman of the late defence of Canada League in World War II.

I would like to point out that to me the situation is impossible—We either have to eliminate the causes for the cold war; either by actual war, or the agreement of all nations to make peaceful agreement—and then retire from the danger zones—with the stipulation that if they cause further trouble they will be drastically dealt with.

Otherwise the Soviet Union who are using this cold war as a smoke screen for their secret scientific experiments can easily develop more drastic nuclear poisons than can wipe out a nation.

With no declaration of war on their part, but "We are only making tests: "We are very sorry we bumped into you. Did we hurt you?"

What alternatives have we, "To be or not to be that is the question."

Let Women Do It

I am writing you to speak to the housewives in the community.

We all know that in the last few years the United Appeal has failed to meet its objective.

Many of us have canvassed for years for one thing or another and know how discouraging it is to be met at the door with the response, "My husband has given at the office." That is fine and all those donations are gratefully received, but I do feel that we housewives who by and large hold the purse strings could find, if we really tried, that we could give 10 cents if we didn't treat ourselves to the cup of coffee the next time we shop. Twenty-five cents if we served baked beans instead of hamburger, fifty cents if we had hamburger instead of a roast, and if you eat steak then I hope you'll give at least the price of a big T-Bone.

This is one chance in the year to help someone, maybe a young boy, a sick old lady, a man just out of prison, or just a little pussy cat.

If the whole community can't get over the top, let us women do the job.

P.S.—I have a good recipe for baked beans.

War Loss Impedes Red Astronomers

Russian astrophysical science is still recovering from damage suffered at the hands of the Germans during the Second World War according to Dr. Graham J. Odgers, senior scientific officer at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here.

In an illustrated address to the Victoria Centre, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, in Victoria University, Dr. Odgers described astrophysics in Russia as a science often impeded by stringent budgets but with ambitious plans for the future.

Dr. Odgers, who spent some four months in Russia this year visiting observatories in Moscow, Poulkovo and the Crimea, said a 240-inch telescope—now in the design stages—will provide Russia with the biggest instrument of its kind in the world.

He added it will not be built for many years.

Saanich Sets Date For Defence Group

Saanich has advised Greater Victoria civil defence authorities that its own emergency measures organization will be functioning fully by March 31.

Reeve George Chatterton this week told council that during a three-month "change-over period" starting Jan. 1 physical assets of the area CD organization would be split among municipalities setting up local organizations.

Council also decided to go ahead with a public hearing on an application to rezone a gravel pit operation on Cordova Bay Road for light industrial use. The advisory planning commission recommended the area be set aside for residential use when the supplies of raw material run out, which will be fairly soon according to the commission's assessment.

Coun. Robert Chard voted against the motion on grounds that planners had given "cogent reasons" for opposing the rezoning.

Council received a petition with 242 signatures obtained from Cordova Bay residents protesting recent cuts in the B.C. Electric bus service. J. C. Cox, spokesman for the petitioners, suggested an alternate route for the new university No. 14 bus which he claimed provided more adequate service. He was told council has passed on the suggestion to transit officials.

A group of Kenmore Road residents who requested construction of a sidewalk the length of the street between Tyndall and Shelbourne were told every effort will be made to include it in the works list.

New Tax Laws To Be Passed

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Premier Shaw announced a special session of the Prince Edward Island legislature will open Monday, Dec. 4.

The session, expected to last only a few days, was called to pass legislation to enable the province to impose its own income and succession duty taxes when new fiscal arrangements with the federal government became effective next year.

Try not to worry and you may live to a ripe old age, said a Victoria resident who celebrated his 101st birthday yesterday.

Edward Prescott, who lives in a basement suite at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Parrott, 1065 Finlayson, had a stream of visitors all day.

"The real secret of long life," he said, "is don't worry. Worry kills off more people than anything else. I do the best I can, say my prayers every night and leave the rest to God."

Mr. Prescott was born in Dover, England. He came to Canada in 1910, worked in Calgary for 13 years, then as an interior decorator at Kimberley before retiring to Victoria 31 years ago.

Tories Reject Hanging Move

BRIGHTON, England (CP) — The Conservative party's annual conference yesterday rejected an extension of the death penalty.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler swung the convention against a motion urging re-introduction of hanging and flogging.

There has been growing opposition to the 1957 law which restricts hanging to a few types of murder — such as killing a policeman or murder while committing a crime — and before the conference debate many had predicted approval of the resolution urging capital punishment for all except the insane.

Butler said detection is the best weapon. He promised more police, better police training methods, stricter laws and better detention facilities.

Although there had been an increase in crime, the incidence of murder "has hardly risen at all since 1957," he said.

TV BLAMED

Much blame for crime lay in the "incitement and excitement" of television, movies and literature. He promised a conference this year with officials of British TV, churchmen, teachers and others.

Although there were about 70 resolutions on the subject, almost all of them critical in varying degrees of government policy, the major resolution for reinstating capital and corporal punishment was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

Won't Look

Bashir Ahmad, Pakistani camel cart driver, who is visiting the U.S. next week at Vice-President Lyndon Johnson's invitation, is sworn on the Koran before his wife and children he will not look at another woman during his visit.

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) — President Kennedy yesterday pledged every effort "to prevent the world from being blown up" but warned Americans they will live out their lives in times of uncertainty and peril.

Standing before an audience of 35,000 at the University of North Carolina, the President promised to pursue a policy of both firmness and flexibility in the fight for western freedom. Now is the time, he said, to be far-seeing and calm.

In a scornful reference to defeatist attitudes, he assured his listeners that they will be "neither Red nor dead" if they do their duty "undeterred by fanatics or frenzy at home or abroad."

But, pointing to crises from Berlin to Viet Nam, he told his audience that "we are destined to live out most of our lives in uncertainty and challenge and peril."

'EVERY EFFORT'

"While we do not intend to see the free world give up," he said, "we shall make every effort to prevent the world from being blown up."

Observing that Russia and the United States have the capacity to destroy each other, he called the present era "a time of national maturity."

In urging Americans to face up to the world as it is and not as they would like it to be, the President said the times, issues and weapons all had changed and it would be a dangerous illusion to believe that present U.S. policies can be encompassed in one slogan "or to believe that we shall soon meet total victory or total defeat."

Anti-Fertility Drug Had Opposite Effect

CHICAGO (AP) — Four researchers who tested a supposed anti-fertility drug on women reported Thursday it produced the opposite result.

The drug, which suppressed fertility in rat experiments, actually induced ovulation when administered to women, they said.

CALLED MRL-41

It apparently promoted fertility in 28 of 43 women treated and pregnancy subsequently became possible in four subjects.

The experimental drug, called MRL-41, has a chemical structure related to a synthetic female hormone.

'MOST WELCOME'

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the researchers said:

"Induction of ovulation is one of the areas in human reproduction in which investigative efforts have met with meager success. The finding that MRL-41, a non-steroid chemical agent, is capable of inducing presumable ovulation in a high percentage of amenorrheic (absence of menses) women is a most welcome development in this difficult field of endeavor."

'Turtle' Sheds Suits

NEW ORLEANS—Policeman Leary Adams noticed Edgar Wilson when he arrived from Memphis, Tennessee, on his annual trek to a warmer climate.

Wilson looked like a turtle, his head barely showing above a heavy brown coat, the officer said. After the 25-year-old was booked for vagrancy, it was discovered he was wearing 11 coats, including a leather jacket and an army coat, 16 pairs of pants, three shirts and a pair of long red flannels.

When clothed Wilson weighed 208. He weighed 150 stripped.

He told police he likes to be warm when he travels.

NEW YORK—The NBC announced that Jack Paar, controversial television personality, had signed a new contract to continue with his show until March 30. There had been reports Paar was to be dismissed.

OTTAWA—Cheddi Jagan, premier of British Guiana, has accepted an invitation from Canada to visit Ottawa Oct. 18 and 19.

WASHINGTON—Supreme Court Justice William C. Douglas ruled that gambler Mickey Cohen could be freed from Alcatraz on a $100,000 bond pending outcome of his appeal of an income tax evasion sentence.

GREENOCK, Scotland—Pat Arrowsmith, 31, a leading British campaigner for nuclear disarmament, was forcibly fed in prison here after a six-day hunger strike.

MINDEN, Germany—Gen. Sir James Cassels, commander-in-chief of the British Army of the Rhine, escaped injury when his plane crashed at the end of an airport runway.

ACCRA—When Queen Elizabeth visits Ghana next month she will receive a gold chain three yards long. Prince Charles and Andrew will be given gold tie pins and talking drums and Princess Anne a gold dressing stool. Prince Philip will get a quartz studded with pure gold.

MONTREAL—British parliamentarian Sir James P. Plimsdon said here the world should pool its arms in the hands of a world security organization if mankind wants to avoid a third global war.

VANCOUVER—Yin-shu

Cho, Chinese consul general here for the Republic of China, predicted that a revolt of mainland Chinese against the Peking Communist regime is near.

EDMONTON, Alta.—Mr. and Mrs. Gary Seidinger halted their nuclear fallout shelter test two days ahead of schedule because one of the two children caught a cold.

TOKYO—The Tokyo Astronomical Observatory said Tsutomu Maki, an amateur astronomer, had discovered a new comet with the brightness of a star of the eighth magnitude.

BONN—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer predicted he would be re-elected by parliament as West German chancellor a week after Germany's new assembly opens Oct. 17.

VANCOUVER—Police have charged Richard James, 32, president of the South Hill Athletic Society, with keeping a common gaming house in connection with a bingo game operation.

GREENSBORO, N.C.—Robert Oliver, 26, arrested on a charge of passing worthless checks, told police he likes to work "in the finance field."

LOS ANGELES—A settlement has been approved under which actress Lana Turner will pay $20,000 to the 12-year-old son of Johnny Stompanato, who was slain in her house by Mrs. Turner's daughter, Cheryl Crane, now 17.

In Wake of Defection, Fracas

Two Soviet Diplomats Ordered Out by Dutch

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—The Netherlands ordered the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats Thursday as the latest move in its diplomatic quarrel with Russia over a defected Soviet biochemist.

The Dutch government told the Soviet Embassy that press attaché A. D. Popov and S. V. Chibrikov, Soviet commercial representative in Amsterdam, were persona non grata (unacceptable persons) and had to leave the country by Saturday. Popov also is the embassy's second secretary.

The Dutch also said they had "serious reason for complaint" about the behavior of Soviet Ambassador P. K. Ponomarevko Monday during a fist fight between Soviet diplomats and Dutch police.

Syria Wins French Nod

PARIS (Reuters)—France announced yesterday its recognition of the new regime in Syria, which came to power after an army-led coup last month.

The French recognition came a few hours after West Germany announced a similar move.

Britain, alone among the major Western powers in not recognizing the new Syrian administration, is expected to act shortly.

Rebellion In Ruanda

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Belgian troops were reported Thursday night to have started large scale military operations against insurgents in Ruanda, the central African Belgian trusteeship.

Colombia Sealed

BOGOTA, Colombia (Reuters)—The government enforced a state of emergency throughout Colombia Thursday as it clamped down on an alleged subversion plan by the extreme right and left.

President Alberto Lleras Camargo declared the emergency Wednesday night after the prison escape and later capture of a Lieutenant Cedeas, leader of an abortive police revolt three years ago.

Camargo said the government would use its special powers sparingly.

Firm Trend Continues

TORONTO (CP) — Speculative interest returned in full force with Canadian Dyno eclipsing almost all other activity.

Canadian Dyno rose 25 cents to $1.44 on a volume of 286,000 shares on rumors of a rich copper find.

The industrial market advanced behind the speculative surge, and almost all groups showed strong gains. Fractional rises predominated.

Papers, refining oils and utilities were mainly responsible for the upward swing.

The senior base metals had been strong with Opiwaka, Ventures and Falconbridge ahead.

New High Reached

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mixed on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

The industrial average rose to a new yearly high for the second consecutive day.

In papers, Bathurst A at 3 and Donohue at 25 fell 1/2.

Price rose 1/2 to a new yearly high at 53 1/2. Consolidated Paper dropped 1/2 at 46 1/2 and Bathurst B lost 1/2 at 39 1/2.

In banks, Montreal rose 1/2 at 69 1/2.

Among the industrials, Moore Corporation again took the spotlight with a drop of 1/2 at 49 1/2 and Dominion Bridge fell 1/2 at 22.

In mines, McIntyre rose 1/2 at 43.

Among the base metals, Hudson Bay slipped 1/2 at 52.

In western oils, Dome Petroleum 1 1/2 at 12 1/2, Alberta Gas Trunk A dipped one point at 35 1/2.

Honolulu Booms

NEW YORK (AP) — A 10-point jump by Honolulu Oil was the standout feature of an irregularly lower stock market.

Trading was moderate.

Honolulu Oil was swamped with buyers at the opening on news that a federal judge had denied a request for an anti-trust injunction to halt the sale of Honolulu's assets.

The company said it would begin promptly to complete the sale.

Ford again underwent heavy selling, despite an agreement to end the strike against it.

The stock fell 2 1/2.

Industrial and rail were slightly lower while utilities were higher on balance.

Air-craft-missile stocks showed some early strength. Motors, steel and airlines were a bit on the downside.

Fractions Added

VANCOUVER — A firmer tone appeared in industrial with Rothmans, MacMillan, Powell and Massey Ferguson adding fractions, but Woodwards dipped further to 17.

Mines were fairly active with Craigmont holding at 31 1/2, Granduc, Bethlehem, Sheep Creek, Torwest, Cowichan and Silt made small gains.

Oils were more active than usual but changes were small.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was active on the Winnipeg grain exchange and most commodities recorded strong advances.

New highs were reported in the rye market and trading was aggressive.

Public Offered Package Deal By Pipeline Firm

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

A newly-formed company which will provide the fast-growing natural gas fields of northeastern British Columbia with a gathering system is offering public participation through a package deal offering.

Gas Trunk Line of B.C., registered in B.C. in July in a $3,000,000 six per cent subordinated debentures and 120,000 common shares. They are to be sold in packages of $500 debentures and 20 common shares at a price of $600.

Gas Trunk owns 53 miles of 16 inch pipeline and 27 miles of 12 inch with compressors in the Peace River area of B.C. It proposes to buy an additional 25 miles of gathering line from Pacific Petroleum and later to build further pipelines, compressor stations and a treating plant.

New City Building Opened

The new $480,000 office building of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation and Canada Permanent Trust Company on Port and Douglas was opened yesterday by Roy Warren, president of the company.

'EXCELLENT JOB'

Mr. Warren described the building as one which was even more pleasing in its completion than it was on the plan and sketches, and he thanked the builders for the excellent job they had done.

Mayor Percy Scurrh congratulated Canada Permanent on its enterprise and said the addition of this fine permanent building was a great asset which proved downtown Victoria had a bright future.

MANY VISITORS

After Mr. Warren had cut the ribbon, Charles Conrad, local manager, announced that the office was open for business, and many visitors were shown round the light, airy, glass-walled building.

The move from the former office a few doors up Port Street from the new site was carried out Monday with city police in attendance as valuable securities were moved from one strong room to the other.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada will play host to 104 students from 27 Commonwealth countries and territories during the current school year under the Commonwealth Scholarship Plan, External Affairs Minister Howard Green announced yesterday.

Green said the selection committee had completed its work, selecting the 104 successful candidates from 231 nominations. The majority of the scholarships was awarded at the postgraduate level for a two-year period.

The students, who will receive grants to cover transportation, tuition and living expenses while in Canada, were successful in their studies.

Divers Find Body Of Seiner Skipper

CAMPBELL RIVER — Body of the captain of the seiner "Camenita" was found by divers early today near the wharf here. There will be an inquest.

James Wadham, Albert Bay, returned to his vessel shortly after midnight yesterday and had not been seen since. The "Camenita" tied up behind the Campbell River wharf last weekend to wait out a fishing closure.

Police said skipper Wadham went ashore Tuesday and was taken back to the dock by taxi early yesterday morning. It is believed he may have lost his footing and fallen into the harbor.

A skindiver probed the waters around the wharf and his search was hampered by poor underwater visibility.

Police Probing Theft Of $3,000 in Tofino

TOFINO — Royal Canadian Mounted Police in this tiny West Coast community are probing theft of $3,000 worth of merchandise and cash from Tofino Fishing & Trading Co., late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

Store owner Mrs. Grace Hardy said entry was made through a window of the building and that missing merchandise includes rings and watches.

West Germany to Launch First U-Boat Since War

BONN (UPI) — The first submarine built in West Germany since the Second World War will be launched Oct. 21 at Hamburg, the defence ministry announced yesterday.

The submarine is the first of 12 to be built for the new West German navy.

The new sub to be launched next week has a displacement of 350 tons, is 131 feet long and 14 feet wide.

Salazar Stamps Out Liberal Manifesto

LISBON (Reuters) — Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar has stamped down on the publication of the opposition "program for making the republic democratic." It was announced Thursday night.

He also refused requests for immediate release of members of the opposition under arrest and against whom no charges have yet been made, and for an "organ of control and arbitration" for Nov. 12 elections to the National Assembly.

The refusal came in a statement replying to a petition to the premier by a group headed by Mario de Azevedo Gomes, former professor of agriculture at Lisbon University.

Salazar said publication of the opposition program would "give the impression that it was the basis of the electoral campaign of opposition candidates."

Traditionally the kilt was a 15-foot length of tartan that was pinned at the shoulder. Today's kilt extends only from waist to kneecap.

School Board

Teacher Raps 'Money' Trustees

School trustees think they are trustees of money rather than education, a spokesman for the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association said last night.

V. N. R. Sewell, heading a teachers' committee during current contract negotiations with the school board's finance committee, said at the opening session:

"I feel school trustees have got the idea they're not trustees of education but trustees of the public purse. You people assume the only thing the public is interested in is the minimum... we have to spend more on education."

The GVTA was pressing the board for higher pay and reduction of the student-teacher ratio from an accepted 30-1 to 30-1 in elementary grades.

Finance committee chairman Kenneth Leeming said the trustees would also like to see a 30-1 ratio but have to be practical in their approach to the public in the forthcoming school building referendum.

"If the referendum passes, we will be able to house those students at least in a 30-1 ratio," he said.

School board chairman W. G. Gelling said, "It is absolutely impossible for us to embark on more than we're doing at the present time."

Mr. Sewell charged the board had "geared everything to the minimum." He felt the public would be willing to pay more if the board asked for more accommodation in the referendum.

"I think this is something the board could do if they're willing to go out and sell it to the public," he said.

The finance committee also opposed efforts by teachers to get a pay increase for the coming year.

"Salaries paid today are favorable and we can see no justification for salary adjustments," said Mr. Leeming. He pointed out there had been no significant increase in the cost-of-living index and that the board was having no difficulty in hiring sufficient teachers.

Mr. Sewell countered that teachers want to "keep up with the standard of wages" because they would soon be in the position they were 10 years ago if they held the line.

'Expectant Mother' Was Policewoman

VANCOUVER (CP) — A policewoman described Thursday how she posed as an expectant mother to gain evidence against a man and woman accused of conspiring to perform an abortion.

Elsie Shapko, 29, was the key witness at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Olive Tomluk, 45, and William Strank, 43.

Policewoman Shapko told of going to an East-End house last August on the pretence that she was pregnant and needed help. She said she arranged an illegal operation for $100 with Mrs. Tomluk and returned later with her "girl friend," policewoman Lee Haines.

Miss Shapko said she went into a bedroom where instruments were in evidence beside the bed.

Jewelry Design Merits Awards by Large Firm

Major awards for excellence and originality of design in diamond rings, to encourage Canada's amateur and professional jewelry designers and craftsmen, have been made by Peoples Credit Jewellers in a ceremony at Toronto.

The awards also are aimed at enhancing the reputation and increasing the acceptance and use of Canadian diamond ring designs in both foreign and domestic markets.

Awards totalling $2,000, and Design Award Certificates of Merit, were presented by M. Gerstein, vice-president of Peoples Credit Jewellers.

On congratulating the winners, company president Bernard Gerstein said: "It was highly gratifying to receive such a large number of entries of unexpectedly fine quality. The competition showed beyond doubt that talent abounds in Canada. Other industries might note this and offer similar opportunities in their own field."

Prizes of $500 and $100 were won by Mrs. Sheila Slegerman of Oakville, Ont.

Other award winners included Mrs. Gertrude Doyle, Halifax; John E. Christie, Montreal; Donald R. Payer, London, Ont.; D. Myerson, Toronto; F. Beasel, Toronto; Miss E. Divitt, Toronto; Peter Cserzi, Hamilton, Ont.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING SHOWS WHAT FINISHED LODGE WILL LOOK LIKE WHEN GREEN MOUNTAIN PROJECT IS COMPLETED.

Skiers 'Do-It-Themselves'

How Dreams Come True

By JIM TAYLOR

If Victoria Sno-Birds can ski as well as they can arrange, they all belong in the Olympic Games.

The Sno-Birds started with nothing but a lease on the slopes of Green Mountain 130 miles by road west of Nanaimo and a fierce determination to build a lodge there. With no money, no equipment, and no previous experience, they set out seven months ago to raise $10,000 for the job.

It seemed impossible. But this weekend the 170-member club will lay the foundation for a three-story lodge at the 12,000-foot level of Green Mountain. To get there they will travel over a two-mile stretch of road they hacked out of the slopes themselves, and later this month they will build a lodge they pre-fabricated themselves in Langford.

It's been a do-it-yourself project with a vengeance. Most of the $5,500 raised since April has come through sale of $75 debentures (repayable in five years at $100), but no money-making project, no matter how small, has been overlooked. A bottle drive netted $100. There have been rummage sales, a raffle, and even a casino night at a member's house. ("I do hope it was legal," one club member decided.)

But the most amazing part of the whole venture is the driving, boundless enthusiasm the club has been able to generate not only in its membership, but in outsiders, many of whom don't even ski.

FOR NOTHING

One man volunteered to pick up 7,000 board feet of lumber at Port Alberni and deliver it to the mountain. A Nanaimo architect designed the lodge for nothing. A cement company donated 60 sacks of cement and a lumber company chipped in with 50 sheets of plywood.

Club members gave up their weekends for work parties, slogging through deep mud to build a two-mile road from the parking lot to the cabin. One member went to the bank and borrowed $6,500 to purchase a snowmobile, severely confident that the club will be able to pay him back.

ACTS ACCORDINGLY

The club feels that every cent saved brings the completed project that much closer, and acts accordingly. Excerpts from its monthly newsletter provide a striking chronicle of the project.

One letter instructs members to bring a certain coffee company's coffee bags to the general meeting because "we are only 25 bags away from our target of 295, the total required for obtaining the coffee urn."

OTHER TASKS

The next letter reports that the new urn is in operation. That disposed of, it sets a few other little tasks for the membership:

"To transport the building materials we need a fleet of pickup trucks, tractors, jeeps, etc. Please check to see if can get one or more for one or two weekends."

"We also require the use of a concrete mixer, several hundred feet of 1/2" plastic waterpipe, and we still need 370 sheets of plywood."

Silly requests? Maybe, but they got them all filled.

Skiers from Nanaimo, Chemainus and Victoria plan to give up a week of their holidays and go to the site en masse to build the cabin.

The lodge will be finished well enough to be habitable for the November to June season. When it is completely finished it will be a three-story glassed-in wonder, complete with kitchen, coffee shop, ski shop and sleeping facilities for 70.

FAR FROM OVER

The job is far from over. Thousands of dollars still have to be raised, and it will mean more fund drives and more work.

When it is over, the skiers who sat back and watched will undoubtedly flock to join the Sno-Birds and enjoy the finished product. Strangely enough, that doesn't bother the club.

"We'll let them join," one member said. "If they had joined earlier they wouldn't have worked anyway. There are always laggards."

Old Cougars Get 'Married' Tonight

By BOB TRIMBLE
(Canadian Press Writer)

After a hectic two-year engagement the marriage of the Western Hockey League and California tonight becomes a reality.

The scene will be the spacious 14,300-seat Memorial

Sports Arena. The bride will be Los Angeles Blades (nee Victoria Cougars) and the dominant color will be gold. More than 9,500 fans are expected for the game, the first since 1950 when San Diego, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Fresno withdrew from the Pacific Coast League, forerunner of the WHL.

Thirty-four days later a sequel will unravel at San Francisco when the Seals also enter the league this season, open their home season against Edmonton Flyers at the 12,000-seat Cow Palace.

Manchester U Sues Airline As Munich Crash Aftermath

Manchester United soccer club is suing British European Airways for $700,000 as a result of the 1958 Munich air crash that killed eight players.

Lawyers for both sides discussed preliminary issues yesterday and a date is to be fixed later for the main hearing.

The team was returning from a European Cup match in Belgrade when its airliner crashed on takeoff from Munich airport in a snow storm. Among the victims were three members of England's national team.

An airline spokesman said the club's suit is based on the deaths of the players, loss of their potential transfer value, loss of game money and loss of prestige.

Kalmikoffs Lose, Win

Ivan and Karol Kalmikoff lost their tag team bout to Roy McClarty and Doug Lindsey on a foul last night at Memorial Arena, but retained their Pacific northwest championship, which cannot be taken from them on a technicality.

In other bouts, Karl Kalmikoff and Lindsey fought to a draw. Danno McDonald beat Krushor Kowalski, and John made somewhat of a Cinderella re-entry a year ago by winning the playoff championship which will help the Blades get under way.

It is the highlight of an opening night schedule that will see all eight clubs in action. The Seals are in Seattle to meet the Totems, Spokane Comets travel to Vancouver to play the Canucks and the Flyers take on Calgary Stampede in Edmonton.

More than 5,000 fans are expected in Edmonton, 4,000 in Seattle and 3,000 in Vancouver.

The California clubs, boasting the largest arenas in the league are expected to lift the over-18 age attendance mark above 1,000,000 and perhaps challenge the record of 1,105,840 established in 1952-53.

The transfer of the Victoria franchise to Los Angeles, the new outlet at San Francisco and the departure of Winnipeg Warriors, at least for one year, has altered the physical shape of the league.

For the first time since 1950 Canadian clubs are in the minority and now all but Calgary and Edmonton are situated along or near the Pacific coast.

TWO NATIONS The league will be divided into two sections with each team playing a 70-game schedule. The Blades, Seals, Buckaroos and Comets will form the southern section and the remaining clubs the northern division. The schedule includes inter-sectional games.

Three new coaches join the league. They are Alf Pike at Calgary, Max McNab at San Francisco and Phil Maloney at Vancouver. Pike saw former WHL service as coach of Winnipeg Warriors three seasons ago. McNab and Maloney, the latter a playing coach, are former winners of the league's most valuable player award. It is their first crack at coaching.

Just Look at Rangers

—At Least for While

New York hockey fans may not have too much to cheer about as the National Hockey League schedule unfolds, but at the moment their Rangers are on top of the heap, and the city's largest home-opener crowd in 12 years turned out last night to cheer the club to its second straight victory.

A delighted crowd of 14,065 watched Rangers beat Boston with a 4-2 victory over the Red Wings at Detroit.

Tomorrow night the Rangers go to Montreal, where coach Doug Harvey faces his old team in the Canadiens' opener. Meanwhile the Bruins help open the season at Toronto.

Andy Bathgate led the way for the Rangers last night with the season's first hat trick.

Camille Henry scored twice and Andy Heberton got the other goal, his second in two games. Bruins enjoyed a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period on rookie Terry Gray's first NHL goal. But Phil Watson, the ex-coach of the Rangers, didn't have much to cheer over in his Bruins' rest of the way.

With former Portland goalie

Don Head looking totally inadequate in the Bruin nets, Rangers sank the Boston club with four goals in the second period and added two more in the third.

Head made a total of 25 stops compared to 27 for Gump Worsley of the Rangers.

Bob Pulford scored the winning goal for Toronto last night. It was something of a pool shot for Pulford, who shot the puck from behind the Detroit net on a power play and watched it bounce off the cushion of Terry Sawchuk's arm into the net.

DULL THROUGHOUT That made it 3-1 for the Leafs, but Vic Stasiuk cut the margin before the second period ended. The third period was dull throughout, with Dick Duff adding the final Toronto goal with the Detroit net empty in the final minute.

Red Kelly got Toronto's first goal on a pass from Frank Mahovlich, and Eddie Shack scored the second. Ed Litzenberger, picked up from Chicago Black Hawks, opened for Detroit.

HITS POST Mahovlich, who scored 45 goals last season, broke in on Sawchuk twice in the first period. His first shot was blocked at the last second, and the next one hit a post.

United Signs Kicker Ace

Victoria United added one of the city's biggest scoring threats to its forward line yesterday with the signing of Volker Stoldt of Victoria Kickers.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

This could be the busiest weekend of the season for outdoor sportsmen, because they have a choice of almost every activity.

On the hunting scene everything is in season except black brant and it is no use hunting them until late February anyway.

Bear, elk, deer, grouse, ducks, geese, pigeons, pheasants and California quail will all be in season and, if the stormy weather continues, hunting should be fairly good.

On the fishing scene there is also a wide range, and with the King Fisherman contest to end at midnight Sunday, anglers are expected to make that last push this weekend. Coho and trout records could fall.

Cowichan Bay remains the best spot for coho, but there are still some big coho being taken in the Port Renfrew to Victoria waterfront waters and some off Saanich Spit.

Jack springs up to five pounds are being taken in the Indian Bay waters of Saanich Inlet, fished deep with minnows or herring strip in the early morning or late afternoon. The odd coho is being taken in the centre of the Inlet between Whittaker Point, Bamerton and Quarry Bay on the change of tides and there are some big grills showing in the Inlet now. John Creed took a 17-pound and a 12-pound spring salmon from the mouth of Tod Inlet.

They are still getting some big coho off Bates Beach and in the Comox waters.

Spin casters using spoons are now catching coho in some of the bigger island rivers—San Juan, Cowichan, Puntledge and Oyster.

Steelheaders are getting fish in Harris Creek, San Juan River and a few unusually early steelhead in the Puntledge River. The Heber River in the Strathcona Park area has been giving up some excellent steelheading.

Lake fishing ranges from fair in all south island lakes to excellent in the Upper Campbell, Battle and Lower Campbell Lakes. Chet Preston, Al Playfair, Jim McConachy, Bill Stancil and Fred Dodsworth returned from a weekend trip to Upper Quinsam with 80 trout, averaging about one pound and some weighing two pounds. Spinners and worms were the hot lures.

Great Central, Cameron, Sproat and Cowichan Lakes have been producing well.

RCMP and conservation officers in plain cars will be making special patrols of the Saanich Peninsula area this weekend to make sure hunters don't trespass on private lands in their search for pheasants.

All Saanich is out of bounds to shooters. In Central Saanich hunters must first get written permission from a property owner, with 25 acres or more, to hunt on his land, and then they have to take out a $2.50 hunting permit from the Central Saanich police or municipal office. Out of bounds is the Breasted area, bounded by Stelly's Cross Road, West Saanich Road and the sea.

No permits are required for Deep Cove and Sidney area of North Saanich, but permission must be obtained from the owners of property.

Outlook for pheasant hunters is fairly good. Pheasants have been fairly plentiful and there was a good hatch this year. Stormy weather would help. Saanich Peninsula, Happy Valley, the whole of the Cowichan Valley to Maple Bay, some of the Nanaimo area, Courtenay to Oyster Bay and the Alberni Valley area are the spots to look for pheasants.

Quail population is fairly high, but hunters in the Highland district and the Kapor area off the Port Renfrew road should acquaint themselves with the difference between California quail and mountain quail.

There is no open season on mountain quail. The top notch of a California quail curves forward and looks like a large comb. On mountain quail the top notch is a long plume going backwards. Mountain quail also have a fairly bright chestnut-colored throat patch.

They count on big coho in the Port Renfrew area. Under a new button setup of the Port Renfrew Fish Derby Association, it takes a 20-pounder to qualify. John Brizan was first button winner with a 20:10 pounder. He also won the coho derby, with Frank Elliott placing second with a 19:5 pounder and Ralph Ross third with a 19:5 pounder. Elodie Moxness won the hidden weight prize with a 5:14 spring.

'Substantial' Raise for Houk

RALPH HOUK, nearly fainted

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Houk signed a new two-year contract to manage world champion New York Yankees Thursday at a reported $45,000 a year and predicted the club should be even better in 1962.

"I got a helluva raise," said the 42-year-old Houk who succeeded Casey Stengel as Yankees skipper just a year ago. "I almost fainted when they showed me the contract."

Roy Hamey, Yankee general manager, said the raise was "substantial" but didn't give any figures. It was understood Houk got $30,000 for 1961.

Houk announced the coaching staff of Frank Crosetti, Johnny Sain, Wally Moses and Jim Hegan would be back. Hamey said Earl Torgerson, signed as a player and later made a coach, had been released because he was interested in becoming a manager either in the Yankee organization or outside.

WANTS PITCHER

"I am satisfied with the club as of right now," said Houk when asked about his future plans. "I won't say I am not eager to trade. I would like to get another starting pitcher but I am not too confident about getting one. I don't think we would be willing to give up enough to get one. We won't give up any of our front line men."

Houk said he is not interested in trading second line men like Johnny Blanchard, Hector Lopez or Billy Gardner.

"I intend to work Blanchard around first base in the spring," he said. "If anything should happen to the Moose (Blowmon), it would be handy to have John available. We'll also work him in the outfield and as a catcher."

Houk said he also expected to use Yogi Berra in the outfield, as a catcher and even third base. He said he had no indications that Berra planned to retire as had been speculated in some quarters.

It's a Boy For Jackie

OTTAWA (CP) — Jackie MacDonald Gelling, holder of the Canadian women's shot-put record, has given birth to a baby boy.

Mrs. Gelling, now living in Ottawa, was a member of Canada's 1954 and 1958 British Empire Games teams and the 1956 Olympic squad.

Minnesota Twins Mounties' 'Angels'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League announced Thursday they have accepted an offer of a full working agreement for 1962 from Minnesota Twins of the American League.

The Twins have promised to send a complete baseball team to Vancouver next year, the club said.

Details of the agreement will be worked out here within the next few weeks and it is understood the agreement will compare favorably with the one Mounties had last season with Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

Mounties president Frank Welters, in announcing the deal, said Milwaukee had initiated negotiations with Minnesota when it became clear the Braves would not have sufficient players to stock the Vancouver PCL team and its other affiliates next year.

No Contest — It's Hutch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fred Hutchinson, who led the Cincinnati Reds to their first pennant since 1940, was named the National League's manager of the year Thursday by the United Press International board of baseball experts.

Hutchinson, who took a team that had finished sixth in 1960 to an amazing triumph before losing in five games to the New York Yankees in the world series, was the choice of all 36 experts. He succeeds Danny Mortag of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won the honor in 1960.

Gorge Plays 'Rest'

Gorge Vale golfers who out-classed all opposition in this year's Inter Club League are taking on the best players of all the other clubs in a challenge match on their own course Saturday.

They will meet a six-man team composed of two players from each of the Victoria, Uplands and Colwood clubs.

In the top match to start at 12 noon, the Gorge aces John Merriman and Bill Wakeham will be opposed by Laurie Kerr, the city champion from Colwood, and Roy Chappell, long-hitting assistant pro from Oak Bay.

The second match puts Vancouver Island match play champion Norman Boden up against the Uplands captain Gordon Fellow.

In this match also Fred Painter opposes his cousin Vic Painter of Colwood. This leaves for the last, and probably deciding matches, an old singles pairing in Art Donaldson and George Bigelow. Donaldson will be partnered by Dave Panthorpe, who in turn will have Fred Ransom, the new Uplands club champion, as his singles opponent. Play will be over 18 holes and there will be three best ball-four ball matches and six singles, each counting one point.

The draw:
Gorge Vale vs. Merriman and Wakeham (GV) vs. Roy Chappell and Kerr
Norm Boden vs. Gordon Fellow and Fred Painter (GV) vs. Vic Painter
Art Donaldson vs. G. B. Bigelow and D. Panthorpe (GV) vs. Fred Ransom

Palmer in Spotlight

LYTHAM-ST. ANNES, Eng. — self from today's opening land (AP) — Jerry Barber, foursomes against Britain — captain of the United States and left the golfing spotlight Ryder Cup team, dropped him — on Arnold Palmer.

Barber teamed Palmer, reigning British open champion, with Bill Casper and the draw pitted that powerful duo against British captain Dai Rees and his long-time partner Ken Bousfield.

That shaped up as the big match in the first stage of the two-day competition over the 6,835-yard course alongside the Irish Sea.

Palmer beat the 48-year-old Rees by one stroke in winning the British Open at nearby Birkdale three months ago. The little Welsh wizard of pro golf is out for revenge.

The other pairings for this morning's matches Americans listed first: Doug Ford and Gene Littler vs. Christy O'Connor and Peter Alliss; Art Wall and Jay Hebert vs. John Pann and Bernard Hunt; Mike Souchak and Bill Collins vs. Tom Halliburton and Neil Cole.

MAY ALTER PAIRS

The afternoon matches will be arranged 30 minutes after the completion of the last morning match. In foursome play, the teammates hit the ball alternately. Either captain can change his pairings for the four afternoon foursome matches.

Barber said, "The teams are very well balanced. Any of them could get hot and defeat any other."

IMPRESSIVE SCORES

Although the Americans have been made 7-to-2 favorites, the British team has turned in the more impressive practice scores.

Pro Games Stay on TV

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for Canada's two television networks said Thursday that Canadian coverage of National Football League games will not be affected this year by recent U.S. legislation regulating television rights to the games.

However, Michael Hind-Smith, programming director of the CTV television network — Canada's first private network — said:

"What happens next year might be a matter for speculation."

The new U.S. law reinstates a contract tossed out earlier by a federal court, by which the Columbia Broadcasting System gained exclusive rights to telecast all regular-season games played by the 14 NFL teams.

In July, the court ruled the CBS package contract violated anti-trust laws.

Why Admiral gives the brightest, sharpest pictures in television...

The tuner is the heart of any TV set — yet only Admiral takes the trouble to build its own!

Most manufacturers buy tuners from an outside source. Admiral builds its own. Other tuners are Life Tested for 25,000 complete turns. Admiral's super-selective "Golden Signet" tuner is the only tuner that's Life Tested for a minimum of 100,000 complete turns! Admiral's "Golden Signet" tuner is designed and built to out-perform and out-last every other tuner in the TV industry. It's one of the features that helps to make Admiral the best buy in Canadian television!

...another reason why Admiral is first in TV sales!

New low-price Admiral Lowboy!

New Deluxe 23" Console

The new BRADFORD features a wide angle 23" aluminized picture tube; convenient top-front tuning controls; etched circuit boards with a five-year written warranty; new long-range "Golden Signet" tuner; two full-fidelity speakers; new swing-out vertical-mounted chassis for simpler servicing. In walnut, mahogany or blonde grained finish.

Victim Waits Four Years

OTTAWA (CP)—Peter Kroeger of Edmonton registered in a small hotel at Evansburg, Alta., Feb. 18, 1957, entered his room, lit a cigarette and the hotel practically blew up. Yesterday—four years and nine months later—Mr. Kroeger was successful in his bid to collect damages from hotel owner George Franchuk for letting the hotel fill "with a dangerous ignitable mixture of gas and air."

Appeal by MacKenzie

Aid for Education Vital

CHARLOTTETOWN P.E.I. (CP)—Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie said Thursday that unless the federal government recognizes its responsibility for more financial assistance Canadian higher education "will never be anything other than second rate."

The president of the University of British Columbia, in the annual Robertson lecture at Prince of Wales College here, declared higher education is of an international character.

All Canadians must be afforded the opportunity of the most education from which they might benefit. Unless this was done "there will be no place for us in this rapidly changing world."

"This means," Dr. MacKenzie said, "we must have good schools, good teachers, good newspapers and magazines, good movies, radio and television and a good system of systems of adult education."

after the hotel explosion Mr. Kroeger sued Mr. Franchuk for $7,278 in Alberta Supreme Court as his medical expenses and compensation.

But he wasn't successful in the Alberta Supreme Court in November, 1960. He appealed to the Alberta Appeal Court last May. That court reversed the lower court decision and gave him damages of $4,016.

Mr. Franchuk asked the Supreme Court of Canada Oct. 3 for leave to appeal against the Appeal Court ruling. The application was rejected by the Supreme Court yesterday.

Rainman Asks

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—It poured in West Vancouver Thursday, but no one knows how much. Thieves stole part of the rain gauge.

Parks Included In Fireworks Ban

Saanich this week approved the uniform Greater Victoria fireworks bylaw while adding two amendments to offset what Reeve George Chatterton termed "deficiencies." The additions ban fireworks in any park or playground and give the chief of police discretion to permit fireworks in special cases. The bylaw forbids sale of fireworks until 48 hours before Oct. 31 and setting off of fireworks is limited to 12 hours before deadline.

Pair Sent To Jail

Two men were sentenced to jail for a year each in Esquimalt police court yesterday, after pleading guilty to joint charges of breaking, entering and theft.

David and Sebastian Jack, both of Cooper Road in View Royal, were given concurrent terms after admitting breaking into a garage at Gorge Vale Golf Club and a building in Veterans' Cemetery Oct. 9, and stealing goods from both places.

Both men had prior records.

Steven Drapak, no fixed address, was sent to the penitentiary by Magistrate William Oatley in city court yesterday after earlier pleas to two charges of breaking, entering and theft and two of theft.

Drapak was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on each of the break-in charges, and to six months on each of two charges of theft. All terms were made concurrent.

He admitted smashing a window to enter the jewelry store of K. A. McLeod Co. Ltd., 915 Douglas, and stealing watches and rings worth $1,749; entering Radio Appliance Co., 783 Fort, the same way and stealing six radios worth $156; and taking a radio and suitcase from the Hudson's Bay Company store and a radio from the T. Eaton Company store.

A police record received from the east showed previous convictions in Toronto, Regina and Prince Albert.

In Saanich court yesterday Frank Leibel, 1385 Hillside, was found guilty of impaired driving and fined $250. He was also restricted to driving for business only for six months.

Court was told Leibel was checked after his car was seen weaving on Patricia Bay Highway, holding up a long line of cars.

B.C. Orders Investigation Of Vang Ties

Attorney General Robert Bonner said yesterday that he had asked the RCMP to investigate the case of an inventor who has been involved in lengthy court cases in California.

The inventor, Alfred Vang, started several ventures in Vancouver some years ago and it was disclosed that three men in Mr. Bonner's department held or do hold shares in some other Vang enterprises.

HIGH OFFICIALS

The employees were identified as J. Stewart Smith, superintendent of brokers; E. T. Cantell, superintendent of real estate; and the late Stanley Taylor, former registrar of companies.

Mr. Bonner said his department had already conducted a lengthy inquiry into Mr. Vang's dealings.

DELAWARE FIRM

The company in which the civil servants hold a stock is the International African American Corporation, a Delaware corporation founded in 1953 by Mr. Vang and financier Louis E. Detwiler.

This company, formed to mine ore in Liberia, recently went into production after being financed by an advance of $200,000 from the U.S. Import-Export Bank, Bethlehem Steel Corporation and a Swedish syndicate.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Most folks today pride themselves on being completely rational in their thinking, without an ounce of superstition in their makeup. They sneer at simple folk who carry rabbit's feet and avoid black cats, and to them Friday the 13th is just another day.

I have noticed, though, that many of these so-called rational people won't light three on a match and will step out into the middle of the street rather than walk under a ladder. I am told many hotels don't have a room numbered 13 and any bank manager will tell you $2 bills are unpopular.

We also have our superstitions in gardening and probably the most common is the belief that good luck follows the finding of a four-leafed clover. I have an idea, though, that the four-leafed clover has lost its virtue, for it is no longer rare.

Good luck is a relative thing, and if everybody has it, it isn't good any more—it has become the norm. Any amulet or charm therefore must be rare and hard to come by in order to be effective, and the four-leafed clover no longer fits into this category. A U.S. plant breeder has developed seeds of four-leafed clover that come true and anybody can have a whole field of the plants simply by buying and sowing the proper strain of seeds. An unusual superstition surrounds the popular houseplant known as the Chinese evergreen and to the Chinese people as "plant of 10,000 years." Ordinarily it is grown in water, thriving under low light conditions and like the philodendron it is valued chiefly for its fresh green foliage.

Like any other foliage plant, the Chinese evergreen is capable of producing flowers, but these are very rare and it is quite a common thing for a plant to go 15 years without ever producing anything more than its attractive leaves.

When it does bloom, it brings either exceptionally good luck or terrible disaster to the family and there is no way of knowing whether good or ill fortune will be yours. The plant can be influenced to bring the good luck by tying a bit of red string or a red ribbon around the stem immediately below the late-declining blossom.

The common cowslip is valued in parts of Europe for a rather peculiar reason—mountaineers believe that the roots, eaten before an alpine expedition, will protect against falls. The herbalist John Gerard, writing in the year 1595, puts it this way:

"Those that climb or hunt in the Alps and high mountains do highly esteem the cowslip by reason that it preventeth the loss of their best joints (I mean their necks) if they take the roots before ascending the rocks."

Of all the plants we grow hereabouts, the one best with the greatest dangers in parsley—one wrong move in the growing of parsley and you've had it! For the benefit of my superstitious friends, I think I had better list the more important do's and don'ts of parsley culture:

● Sow nine times as many seeds as you expect to come up, for the devil is very fond of parsley seed and takes eight out of nine of those sown. If you want to economize on seed, sow on Good Friday, as Old Nick is inoperative on that day.

● Make your parsley rows up and down the length of the garden. Crosswise rows bring bad luck.

● Parsley plants transplanted from one garden to another carry incredibly bad fortune to the recipient. This is an easy way to put a hex on an unpopular neighbor.

● A married woman who makes a successful sowing of parsley seed will wear the plants in the family thereafter. If Old Nick likes her well enough to allow her seeds to come up, he will back her to the hilt in any family squabbles.

● An unmarried girl who succeeds with a sowing of parsley will never find a husband.

Television in Review

Astaire's Stars Stunning

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fred Astaire, always so easy to take, is one of the men who imports to TV what ever class it can boast of.

I'm glad that he has latched on to a TV series, for it will involve him with the medium more directly than ever. And what makes this union still more vigorous and welcome is the fact that last night's opening for Astaire's Alcoa Premiere series on ABC-TV was a rousing and, at the same, sensitively enacted drama.

"People Need People" was a tightly compressed version of what went on at a Navy hospital in Oakland, Calif., in 1955 when Dr. Harry Wilmer withdrew all restraints from a group of psychoneurotic servicemen and let them sample community living for a 10-day experimental period.

At the end of that interval, despite some difficult crises and setbacks, the patients had responded to such a degree that they could be reassigned to hospitals and wards, their recovery chances considerably improved.

Lee Marvin was remarkably brilliant as Marine Sgt. Hughes, the most hostile and volatile patient in the group. Marvin's searing control of the character, his uninhibited furies, came and went with vivid, painful power and the ring of authenticity.

Equally impressive were Arthur Kennedy as Dr. Wilmer and James Gregory as Chief Driscoll, another of the beat-up but salvageable hulks in Wilmer's group therapy experiment. The entire cast pitched in and, under Alex Segal's direction, gave of itself unsparingly to make this hour count for something. The cast also included Joey F. Forman, Keir Dullea, Marion Ross, Jocelyn Brando, Paul Sand and John Alderman.

Drawbacks? Well, this business of arousing instincts for understanding our fellow man worked too well. I found myself caring about the patients in Wilmer's ward, not just Sgt. Hughes, the central figure in the drama. Unfortunately, Henry Greenberg's script couldn't deal in detail with each case. And that was a flaw, for those cases were 24-carat beauties.

Another flaw was the 10-day deadline attached to Wilmer's experiment. This aspect of the story remained underdeveloped and raised more questions than the script was prepared to answer. The deadline took on a superfluous, even gratuitous, aspect.

There were too many short cuts in the plot, some fast-shuffles at the finish and an incomplete summation of the experiment's accomplishments. But with it all, I admired the acting and the skill with which intergroup communication and esprit-de-ward were slowly, painfully and lastingly established.

I guess "People Need People" needed another half-hour to do its job as well as, say, "Playhouse 90" did with a similar theme in "Journey to Day."

What did Astaire have to do with "People Need People?" He was the on-camera host and off-camera narrator. People Need People and TV needs Astaire, especially if he'll help build an audience for a production that was worth watching.

Hollywood Today

'Underworld' Lacks Kelly

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Gene Kelly had to turn down direction of Robert Prenton's Broadway musical, based on "Viva Villa!"—and I can't do Ben Hecht's musical version of "The Underworld" either. Both for the happiest reason. "When I finish editing 'Gigot,' I'm going to accept nothing until after the baby arrives in February."

Don't ask Charles Laughton for his autograph—he signs his name "W. C. Fields."

Opera star Jean From is keeping busy to forget her disappointment at being written out of the Noel Coward musical hit on Broadway, "Sail Away." Originally she was the girl who got the boy, but Noel switched the romance to Elaine Stritch during the out-of-town tryout. Elaine is on cloud nine since reading the raves.

The suggestion that Audrey Hepburn should star in "My Fair Lady" for the screen is a good one, although I still think Julie Andrews should. Julie can sing and dance. Audrey can dance—she trained as a ballerina—but the singing is more important in this story.

Juliet Prowse gave an interview stating that Elvis Presley is "vulgar" when he performs on stage, but that he is a gentleman in real life.

Obviously they don't pay very much for entertainment in South America. Dan Duryea has just received a check for $1.12 for a showing of his "China Smith" on TV in Paraguay!

Bing Crosby is going into TV production in a big way—also movies, for his own company. He will star in some of them. "I want to do more serious things," Bing told me. "How long can I go on doing a song and dance?"

Some of the bloodier scenes in Anthony Quinn's "Barabbas" will have trouble passing the British and French censors who are more liberal in the sex department than we are.

Vivien Leigh, was asked the same question in Australia by a cub reporter that made her so angry when she came to Atlanta via New York for the re-run premiere of "Gone With the Wind": "What part do you play?" I think she had a right to be furious in each case—she has put on a bit of weight.

The stork in the household of Mr. Laurence and Lady Olivier, Jean Prewright, had better be on time. Sir Laurence is due in Dublin to start "Term of Trial" December 11. The baby is expected a couple of days earlier.

People on Them?

Stars Hot Inside But Dark

By BRYANT EVANS

Copied News Service

The best news for science fiction writers in a long time has been produced by Dr. Harlow Shapley, the famous professor emeritus of astronomy at Harvard University.

For a long time the "other worlds" writers have had a hard time dreaming up a convincing way to take marbles to other planets where life like ours might exist. Real science has caught up with them.

The chance of finding humanoid types in the solar system has been demonstrated to be nonexistent and the planets of other stars are too far away for a man to get there and back in a lifetime, even with the fastest rocket that is theoretically possible.

But now Dr. Shapley has thought of a new possibility. He thinks there may be dark stars floating around in space which could provide a satisfactory home for planets and animals, some of which might be at least as talented as human beings.

As stars go these would be both small and cool. Dr. Shapley thinks of them as being somewhere between the sizes of the planet Jupiter and the sun. They would not depend on outside sources of energy, as the earth does, but would yield a flow of heat from processes inside.

Dr. Shapley thinks such stars, invisible to us, may be very numerous—more numerous perhaps than the stars that can be seen.

Now the Harvard astronomer does not pretend there is any real evidence for the existence of these habitable stars. He thinks that some day, when radio astronomy becomes more efficient, some of the radio "noise" being heard today will become resolved into clear signals produced by the stars' low-level radiation.

In the meantime, the science-fiction producers can have a field day with the idea. What would plants do without bright sunlight to power their photosynthesis?

Since the stars would be greater than the earth in bulk, the pull of gravity would be much greater. So, would the animals be larger or smaller than earth animals? These are just a few of the problems that the fiction writers can "solve" for the public.

In quite a different area of study, real scientists are working on new tools that could obtain information on these small dark stars, if they do exist.

This effort is in developing new radio equipment which uses shorter waves than any used today.

Fiction writers should not delay. To keep ahead of today's research, they should get into print fast.

Rumors 'Old Hat'

No Property Interest Says Angry Mayor

View Street Bylaw Up for Review Soon

By TED SHACKLEFORD

An angry Mayor Percy Scurrell yesterday flatly denied rumors that he has any interest in property on View Street where the city plans to build one of two off-street parking garages.

"As you know, this parking bylaw is now up for action," Mayor Scurrell began at a meeting of city council.

SAME OLD LIE

"The same old lie that was used against me in the last election two years ago—that I owned property on View Street or was interested in property—is being whispered about town at the present time."

"I own no property on View Street nor have any interest in any, nor have any of my relatives at all."

Mayor Scurrell asked city council to appoint the city's advisory parking commission to investigate the sites available and make recommendations to council.

ALDERMEN HEARD

Two aldermen—Millard Mooney and Michael Griffin—told Mr. Scurrell they had heard the rumor and had checked it, finding it false.

Ald. Arthur Dowell commented that two years ago, when city council was proposing an off-street parking garage and pedestrian mall for the View Street area he was appointed by council to investigate rumors which also proved false.

QUASH RUMORS

Mayor Scurrell told council he felt that appointment of the advisory parking commission would "quash" the rumors.

His suggestion was approved by council.

The council also decided to change the original plan for construction of the buildings.

Original plan was to ask contractors to submit designs for the buildings, together with bids. Council yesterday decided to have the building designed and then call tenders only.

Victoria Unveils Fall Fashion Line

Bumbershoots are back on Victoria streets as the fall rains begin with a vengeance. The magic eye of the telephoto lens shows a variety of carrying styles and methods of beating the downpour, ranging from the Cape Cod sou'wester gear worn by the gentleman at the far right to the rakish tilt affected by the slacks-clad woman at the right. Little girl part of the mother-and-daughter ensemble seems to regard the umbrella as an eyeshade, rather than protection from the weather.

New Y Stays On Hill

Ald. Michael Griffin failed yesterday in an attempt to have city council ban construction of the proposed new Y.M.C.A. building within the Cathedral Hill precinct.

"This is... not generally acceptable to the people at large," he said. "Many people think this type of facility does not fit within the concept."

MOTION DEFEATED

Mayor Percy Scurrell supported Ald. Griffin's view and Ald. A. W. Toome seconded a motion not to allow provision for construction of the building in new precinct zoning regulations, but the motion was defeated.

After the motion was lost, Ald. Griffin attempted to have the zoning altered to prevent use of the proposed building as an accommodation centre, but this motion was defeated, too.

ACCEPTED BY COUNCIL

With few amendments, the special bylaw to establish the Cathedral Hill precinct by special zoning was accepted by council and given preliminary readings.

No Serious Injuries

Safety Belts Show Worth As Rain Produces Mishaps

Rain and wet streets produced a series of traffic accidents in Greater Victoria yesterday, sending a number of people to hospital. None was seriously injured.

Gordon H. Fraser and W. H. Wilson, both from HMCS Ottawa, were riding in a car driven by Fraser which apparently skidded on Esquimalt Road at Bowlsby Place and knocked out a power pole and a hydrant.

Both were rushed to HMCS Naden hospital, where Wilson was released almost at once and Fraser admitted for temporary observation with head abrasions.

CAR SIDESWIPED

An hour later, a truck driven by Johannes DeJong, 1138 View, and a car driven by Joseph M. Reichmuth, 1638 Amphion, side-swiped while passing in a turn at Collinson and Rupert.

Reichmuth was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation with cuts to the head, arm and neck. A passenger in his car, Margaret Richlin, 130 Joseph, suffered shock and was released.

CROSSED INTO PATH

Police said the boy crossed from behind one moving car into the path of a passing vehicle driven by Eunice Beryl Howell, 4022 Palmetto.

The boy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Oak Bay police, and held for observation. Police said his injuries could have been much more serious, except that a nearby road excavation had slowed all traffic in the 30-mile zone to about five miles an hour.

Safety belts played a part in another accident at Hillside and Fifth when two cars stopped behind a car waiting to turn left and a third car was unable to stop in time, striking the car ahead.

Gregg Barlow, 9, 3953 Locarno Lane, was sitting sideways in the last car, and bruised his ribs on the dashboard. Driver was his mother, Mrs. Shirley Barlow.

Driver of the car ahead was Mrs. Margaret Birkett, 1949 Waterloo, with her husband, Robert, a passenger.

Both were wearing safety belts and were uninjured.

"We always buckle them on—tight—even when we're driving only half a block," Mrs. Birkett told police. "It's become a habit since I was injured in a crash some time ago."

Griffin Apologizes On Offer for Land

Ald. Michael Griffin yesterday publicly apologized for remarks he made during a meeting of city council Friday.

But other members of council, who made similar remarks, did not apologize.

Ald. Griffin referred to an offer of $45,000 for land which the city had agreed to sell to

Fire Levels Empty House On Malahat

A spectacular fire that could be seen for miles razed a small house near the Malahat summit last night leaving only a brick chimney standing.

Shawnigan RCMP received a call at 7:15 p.m. but although they were on the scene in a few minutes they could not save the vacant dwelling.

The home, which overlooks the site of the original Malahat Lookout, was owned by Johann Winter of Vancouver.

A second dwelling directly below the home that burned last night was destroyed by fire last February.

Police said cause of the fire was under investigation. Dozens of Saanich Peninsula residents could see the blaze across Saanich Inlet.

Newest Birthday Plan Returned to Advisers

City council, under fire for delay in announcing an official centennial project with 1962 only 78 days away, yesterday asked its centennial committee to have a look at another suggested project.

The move will further delay a final decision on just what the city's centennial project will be.

Council originally charged the centennial committee with recommending a project and a recommendation was made to the Sept. 14 meeting of council.

NEW CITY HALL

The project—creation of a centennial park and square in the Cathedral Hill area, construction of a new city hall to include accommodation for the Greater Victoria School Board, and creation of a Victoriana museum in Craigdarroch Castle—was referred to council's city hall committee for consideration.

No report or recommendation was made by the city hall committee yesterday but Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman, said he hoped a recommendation could be made in the near future.

The new project which council will consider is construction of a senior citizens' recreation centre in downtown Victoria.

Suggested recently by Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, the plan was brought to the attention of city council yesterday by a letter from Glen Hamilton, executive director of the Silver Threads Service.

"Such a centre would provide a fitting memorial to the pioneers who built this community and would be available for use by all our citizens as they reached retirement age," Mr. Hamilton wrote.

"Our own experiments on a smaller scale in operating a social centre for elderly folk have convinced us of its tremendous value."

Ald. Dowell referred to criticisms that his committee has been inactive and said he felt aldermen would like to know what is going on.

"Before we thought it advisable to bring any recommendations to city council."

There are certain procedures to go through," he said.

"There are other things in mind that we want to be finally settled before we make a recommendation to council."

"The delay was through no fault in the committee and I want that definitely understood, and I want it understood that we want things to be done as rapidly as possible."

"We are hoping in the very near future that we will have definite answers to certain things we want to know and until such time as we get those answers I don't think we can make a report to council."

Seedy Plans in Sight For 'Dogwood Campus'

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

FLOWERY CAMPUS: Victoria Rotary Club members have turned to gardening as a result of a club project designed to give Victoria University the only "dogwood campus" in Canada.

Dogwood, which is protected by a special act of the legislature, is the official provincial flower.

More than 60 Rotary members have been given dogwood seeds to plant in special "flats" in their own backyards.

The plants will be carefully nurtured until next fall when they are to be transplanted in a special plot at the university.

The club hopes to provide the Gordon Head campus with at least 2,500 dogwood trees at the end of a four-year period.

Even members who are not gardeners have joined in the public-spirited venture and special directives on how best to care for the plants will be issued by the club regularly.

THE THINGS THEY SAY: One of the three candidates for the presidency of the B.C. Liberal Association, Hugh Martin, president of Marwell Construction, describes the present Social Credit government as "an amoral bunch of amateurs who really don't know where they are leading this province. They're little boys playing with very big things."

ON THE SCENT: Hunters in the Nanaimo Lakes area this weekend should only have to follow their noses to find out what part of the woods the elk frequent.

The story is that a hunter shot an elk last Sunday, strung it up on a tree, and left it there in order to make the access requirement of being out of the area by 3 p.m.

He returned for his elk on Monday—but couldn't find the spot where he had left it!

And talking of hunting—one of the sorriest elk stalkers last weekend was Victoria Fish and Game access chairman Bob Bohl who decided on the lazy man's way to get an animal.

Going by past experience, he stationed himself on top of a ridge frequented by elk.

Sure enough, after the other hunters got at the elk below he saw a herd of 26 elk slowly wending their way uphill toward him. But they took the left fork in the trail and passed him up.

year," said Bob. "I was sure they'd have taken the right fork this year."

With its "grow-in" work ability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality, home construction. It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any siding, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior. "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc. APPEARANCE? For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines, sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of the grade. WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES? "FOREST" siding with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint. "FOREST" siding represents an ECONOMY to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding, the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor costs. HOW IS IT APPLIED? As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut. HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED? If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the built (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier. WHEN YOU BUY SPECIFY "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING or WESTERN RED CEDAR BEVEL SIDING BRITISH COLUMBIA FOREST PRODUCTS LTD. Victoria Sawmill Division Fir, Hemlock and Cedar Lumber Products Plywood Cedar Shakes PRE-TO-LOGS Phone EV 5-3331 371 Gorge Road E.	BUILDING SUPPLIES Quality Supplies for Every Job Shop us first for all your home improvement needs... and save. ## Archivist Says

'No Fund for Rotting Vessel'

VANCOUVER (CP) — City archivist Major J. S. Matthews is more than a little miffed at city inaction to preserve the historic RCMP vessel St. Roch.

"My voluntary efforts to preserve the St. Roch were unrecognized and deliberately rebuffed," said the out-spoken major. "I have decided to go into obscurity and the fund goes with me."

Forester Says in U.S.:

Foreign Control Affects Canada's Trading Position

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (CP) — A Canadian forester says foreign control of Canadian-based companies directly affects the competitive position of Canada in world markets.

He spoke to 1,000 delegates Wednesday before the wind-up of a joint meeting of the Canadian Institute of Forestry

Archie
Flees
Comforts

ACTON, Ont. (CP) — Even a tent of his own didn't make Archie Shaw happy.

Archie, 68, has vanished again following a brief bout with civilization.

After three years of hermit life in a cave, Archie 15 months ago accepted a pension and a room in the Halton Home for the Aged.

The superintendent of the Halton institution recently offered Archie a tent to himself on the grounds.

Archie gave it a trial but the call of solitude overcame him again. He has vanished, leaving behind his total worldly wealth — $3.

Daily Colonist, Victoria, B.C.
Friday, October 13, 1961Fair Fight Assured
For Top Varsity Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two ladies are pledged to campaign for the top job on the Vancouver school board.

Both candidates are often described as a combination of beauty and brains. Both have one son and one daughter.

The winner will succeed the late A. E. (Doc) Grauer, chairman of the B.C. Electric Company, who had 18 months to go in his four-year chancellor's term when he died in August.

About 28,000 members of the UBC convocation, including graduates, recipients of honorary degrees and faculty members, may vote. The result will be known November 28.

Truly - a
rum!

Mr. Lemon Hart's rums travel for a reason. Made in the heart of the West Indies they are then sent to England because the moist airs of England are traditionally the finest in the world for maturing rums. After quiet years in England they are perfectly blended, bottled and shipped to Canada and throughout the world. These expensively brought up rums, full of light-hearted charm and flavour, are happily available to Canadians at home and abroad.

Victoria United Appeal Committee.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada will seek world-wide support for its proposed world food bank plan by sending an 18-member delegation to next month's 15th session of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization in Rome. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced yesterday.

Diefenbaker said Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton will head the big Canadian delegation at the Nov. 4-23 conference.

Canada's interest in establishing a world food bank of surplus agricultural products to assist nations facing famine and other emergencies was "one underlying reason for the strength of the delegation," he said.

"Canada is concerned with getting support for the food bank and with steps directed to raising nutritional standards in all parts of the world as well as using food for development purposes," the prime minister added.

Six Dead From Polio This Year

OTTAWA (CP) — No new cases of polio were reported in Canada during the week ended Oct. 7, the health and welfare department said today.

Two cases had been reported the previous week, bringing the total so far this year to 136. Polio has caused six deaths in 1961 so far.

Quebec leads the provinces this year with 64 reported cases. Alberta reported 25 cases, and British Columbia four.

King Fisherman

Sunday Is Deadline For Women Anglers

Women anglers in the Colanist King Fisherman contest have a prize all of their own to seek and Sunday midnight is the deadline for them to catch a fish that will qualify them.

Any salmon five pounds or more, or any trout or bass one pound or more will qualify for hidden weight prizes.

Main hidden weight prize for women will be an Elizabeth Arden fitted cosmetic case donated by T. Eaton Co. and that same company donates a $10 script each month as a hidden weight prize for women.

Fish caught before Sunday midnight will qualify for the cosmetic case and the monthly prize, as well as the Mexico holiday, helicopter weekend trip and aluminum boat. Women are also eligible for the main fishing prizes and Mrs. Emma Ross of Port Renfrew is upholding the honor of her sex by leading the spring salmon division with a 47.8-pounder.

'Archaic Culture'

Indian Relics Amaze Expert

DEEP RIVER, Ont. (CP) — ones have been discovered in other parts of Canada. Six skeletons have been taken from the site to the National Museum for study. The Indians who camped on Morrison's Island in the Ottawa River belonged to what archaeologists term the archaic culture. They had no pottery and it is believed that they used spear-throwers instead of bows and arrows.

Dr. R. S. MacNeish, senior archaeologist for the National Museum in Ottawa, described the find as "very unusual and very amazing."

He said it would appear that burial ground is the oldest ever found in Ontario. Older

Carl V. Bell Rites Today In Oak Bay

Funeral services will be held today at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, for Carl V. Bell, 72, a well-known insurance man of Calgary and Vancouver who died in hospital here Tuesday.

Mr. Bell came to Victoria from Calgary in 1950 following his retirement from business. He was a member of the local advisory council of the Salvation Army, and was an active supporter of Victoria University and the symphony society. He was a member of the Union Club.

He leaves a widow, three daughters and one son at home, and two brothers, James V. and George C., who live in Victoria.

Bennett Woos Ruffled U.K.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett has bought newspaper space in London to boast about the province's "inviting investment climate," a Vancouver report says.

It says the action came in the face of strong criticism from leading United Kingdom investment groups over his ousting of B.C. Electric's expropriation Aug. 1.

The provincial government's case for luring British capital is contained in a two-page display of the Sept. 27 issue of the London Financial Times, an arbitration of the seizure, the newspaper which has already

McLean Defends Questionnaire Stand

Ald. J. L. W. McLean yesterday defended his stand taken recently in favor of retention of religion and racial origin questions in city job application forms.

Ald. McLean, a minister, was one of five aldermen voting to retain the questions. His comments on letters pertaining to the subject submitted by Unitarians and the Victoria Labor Council later drew comments from spokesmen of both groups.

He said yesterday he approaches his duties on council "not as a churchman in civic government but as a tax-paying citizen of Victoria."

"I have sought no special privileges for religious organizations and I am confident that my fellow-aldermen with whom I sometimes disagree have no reason to brand me as narrow-minded, sectarian, or bigot," he said.

"It was in this spirit and with this intent that I discussed the proposal that all reference to race, religion, color or ancestry be dropped from the questionnaire submitted by City Hall to applicants for positions."

"Ample evidence was submitted that these questions on the application forms have not been used to discriminate against anyone, and that these questions have proved useful on occasion."

"Two letters were read urging that the questionnaire be amended: I pointed out that they emanated from sources which, with reference to the question under consideration, are biased."

"In assessing what weight they should carry with council, I referred to the relatively small numerical strength and the ideological position of one organization. I made reference also to the other organization as expressing a point of view to be expected from it," said Ald. McLean.

"The word 'smear' has been used. Let me put the record straight: I did not intend nor did I make any attack. I did not argue that any group should not be heard; rather I suggested that the worth of the argument should be assessed in the light of who made it."

"The citizens of Victoria may be interested in knowing that the Unitarians (whom I have been accused of attacking) have been offered some weeks ago by myself and committee use of our Kirk Hall for a public meeting in the near future," he added.

Wiser's whiskies are older in virtually all cases.

Compare the age, plainly marked on each bottle of Wiser's whisky with any other brands. You will find, on the average, Wiser's whiskies are older. And "older" to Wiser's means aged in wood... and "married" in wood—a process of returning the spirits to wood after final blending for a further period of quiet aging. So for the best whiskies, drink one that's older and Wiser's.

Sightseeing Dog-Sled?

Jury Pauses In Assizes

Trial of Ronald Dale Hase of Vancouver on a charge of breaking and entering last April at Sidney, opened yesterday before Mr. Justice T. W. Brown and a jury at the fall assizes.

Shortly after 3 p.m. the jury was excused until 10.45 a.m. today, while the court considered admissibility of certain evidence which the prosecution plans to introduce.

OTTAWA (CP)—Arctic dog-sledding, anyone, for a holiday that's different?

Don't bet against it in the next year or two, tourist promoter Max McConnell of the northern affairs department said Wednesday.

Two or three tourist operators have expressed interest in the idea. Trips by husky would be made perhaps 50 miles out into the wilderness and back in April and May, when the weather is favorable.

LABOR INCREASE

Mr. McConnell is concerned with helping tourism expand in the Northwest Territories and he said there appears to have been a 25-per-cent increase in visitors this year. In 1960, some 1,000 persons visited the territories and spent an estimated $450,000 there.

Next year, for the first time, arrangements will be made to see just how many visitors there are including those to points other than the sophisticated Western towns like Yellowknife which now can be reached by road, as of last summer.

HELP FLOW

Festivities next door in the Yukon, celebrating the gold rush, are expected to help the Mackenzie River tourist flow as well.

Pilot Tunnel To Precede Bid by BCE

Application by the B.C. Electric Co. for a provincial water licence to develop the Peace River power project will not be made until after a pilot diversion tunnel has been drilled at the site of the huge dam, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said yesterday.

Immediately after the takeover of the BCE last August, chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said a licence application would be made almost immediately. Yesterday Mr. Williston, deputy chairman of the new Crown-owned company, said it would still be several months before this was done. The minister said the first pilot tunnel will tell engineers a lot they still don't know about the basic rock structure at the damsite and what they learn may well determine details of the licence application.

The tunnel will be 2,500 feet long and 10 feet square and the BCE is now studying nine tenders for the job.

OTHER PROBLEMS
The minister also indicated there are other problems on the job.

Tenders were called recently for a temporary bridge over the Peace as that heavy equipment could move into damsite. But the bids which ranged around the $500,000 mark were twice as much as expected and engineering consultants are now studying the problem to see if some sort of alternate crossing was feasible.

ICE BRIDGE
Mr. Williston said it might be possible to use a form of ice bridge to get the equipment across as soon as the freeze-up starts.

The minister also indicated that no water rights licence is needed to push through the pilot tunnel.

Primary purpose of water rights hearings, such as were recently held for the Columbia project, is to protect the rights of people whose land and homes may be flooded out. This does not affect many in the Peace area.

Politician Pocketed $18,000

QUEBEC (CP)—A defeated Union Nationale candidate said yesterday he received $18,000 in kickbacks on sales to the Union Nationale government and that he was ruined by politics.

Eugene F. Noel, first of 12 witnesses to appear before the Salvus royal commission Thursday, said he received the money in $3,000 instalments from Charles Cusson Limited, and Sico Paint Company between 1954 and 1960.

Noel, defeated in Quebec West riding in the 1956 provincial election, said some of the cheques came by mail, others from party treasurer Gerald Martineau.

Noel said he felt the money was a return for the expenses of a candidate.

"Can I add something else?" he asked at the end of his testimony.

"Yes," came the reply. "I ruined myself in politics," he said.

Professor Says:

'Berlin Focal Point Of Phony Tension'

By TED FULFORD

Complex forces at work on the ideological battleground of Berlin were dissected and evaluated in Victoria last night with a surgeon's skill.

Prof. John B. Wood, supervisor of extramural credit courses at the University of British Columbia, and a British foreign service officer in Europe for more than 10 years beginning in 1945, gave his careful analysis of the Berlin crisis to the first fall meeting of the Victoria branch, United Nations Association.

It was an appraisal which drew heavily on the historical factors which created the paradox of a divided Berlin in the first place, then explained them in terms of two diametrically opposed ideologies in conflict over the city.

The foundations of crisis, he explained, were laid as far back as 1947 when a free election in Berlin resulted in a decisive defeat for the communists at the hands of socialists and democrats.

Non-communist members of the new government were threatened by the Reds with arrest, the legislative mechanism ground to a halt and the journey to partition had begun.

"From that moment on," said Prof. Wood, "the Soviets started getting difficult."

"We can better understand Russia's insistence upon demilitarization when we remember that her security has been jeopardized by the west on three occasions."

He does not see Berlin as a focal point of world crisis but rather as a sort of classic symptom of the deep ideological conflict between Marxism and capitalism.

BERLIN CRITICAL

And, critical though the Berlin situation is, he does not see it as the prelude to war.

"As far back as 1956," said Prof. Wood, "Russian Premier Khrushchev made himself quite clear on this point. He bluntly informed a group of trade unionists that he did not intend to see 500,000,000 people fighting the issue of 17,000,000 Germans."

What, then, does Prof. Wood see as the alternative to war over Berlin?

His answer appears essentially to be a sort of "peaceful co-existence" which will be no co-existence at all; nor will it be particularly peaceful.

Berlin is the focal point of a "phony tension," symbolic of all both East and West stand for. For the present he sees a continued struggle—short of war. For the future, an uneasy compromise.

WHAT ALTERNATIVE?

What, then, does Prof. Wood see as the alternative to war over Berlin?

His answer appears essentially to be a sort of "peaceful co-existence" which will be no co-existence at all; nor will it be particularly peaceful.

Berlin is the focal point of a "phony tension," symbolic of all both East and West stand for. For the present he sees a continued struggle—short of war. For the future, an uneasy compromise.

St. John's
Lives
Again

Religious service of re-dedication was conducted by Most Rev. Harold Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia last night in an overflow congregation at St. John's, Quadra and Mason streets. The church was gutted by fire last year. (See story over leaf). (Colonist photo by Bud Kinnaman).

Envoy Takes Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department said yesterday it hopes to resume exploratory, ambassador-level Berlin talks with Russia "in the very near future."

Meanwhile, a department spokesman said, officials are preparing for a new and intensified phase of Allied planning in Washington during the next few weeks.

CONSULTATIONS

Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Russia, has been here for consultations during the past week and plans to be back in Moscow next Tuesday. That day marks the opening of the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress, at which Premier Khrushchev is expected to make some major speeches on Berlin.

President Kennedy told his press conference Thursday he hoped Thompson would try to sound out the Kremlin on Berlin, taking up where recent talks here with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko left off.

ALLIES TO MEET

State department spokesman Lincoln White said top Berlin experts from the foreign offices of Britain, West Germany and France may come here soon to join Allied strategy talks which have been going on at the ambassador level nearly every day.

Conscripts To Stay On?

BONN (UPI)—Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss disclosed yesterday that West Germany's military conscription period will probably be extended soon from 12 to 18 months.

The government has already retained for three more months the 30,000 soldiers who were to have concluded their military duty Oct. 1.

U.S. May Restart A-Tests in Air

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The United States said yesterday it will be forced to re-examine its position on nuclear tests in the atmosphere if the Soviet Union persists with its current series.

Ambassador Arthur Dean said the world no longer can put its trust in a voluntary moratorium because of Russia's "callous disregard of its obligations" in resuming nuclear explosions in the air.

Dean said the only insurance against the threat of nuclear war and spreading radioactivity fallout from tests is an international test ban treaty under effective controls.

READY TO SIGN

"The United States and the United Kingdom are ready to sign such a treaty today, tomorrow, any time," he said. "If the Soviet Union agrees to such a treaty with us, then all tests of all kinds—in the air, underground, under water—can cease at once, and further nuclear risks to humanity will also cease."

NO ACTION TAKEN

Dean spoke to the General Assembly's political committee during a procedural debate on whether to consider U.S. British and Indian proposals on nuclear tests before a Soviet proposal on general and complete disarmament.

The committee adjourned.

Fallout Affects Food As Red Tests Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia exploded another nuclear device in the atmosphere yesterday as radioactive fallout from the 20-odd Soviet blasts began showing up in food supplies.

The public health service reported amounts of radioactive iodine 131 found in milk samples from major cities in Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi and Missouri.

Radioactive iodine in food is of special concern because it settles in the thyroid of children, among others, and may cause cancer if it is present for a considerable time.

Radio Reports Gagliardi Thinking About Quitting

VANCOUVER (CP)—Radio station CKNW quotes Highway Minister Gagliardi as saying he is thinking seriously of dropping out of politics.

Reporter Al Davidson said Mr. Gagliardi made the statement in a tape-recorded interview during the last week.

He quoted the minister as saying he would not quit "in the heat of battle," but would give it serious consideration after his trial in Kamloops on a charge of driving without due consideration for the rights and safety of others.

The trial date is to be set Oct. 19.

Mr. Gagliardi left here Wednesday on a Canadian Pacific Airlines jet flight to Tokyo.

Costly Model of Fraser Torn Up for UBC Cars

VANCOUVER (CP)—A $500,000 scale model of the Fraser River which gained worldwide fame when it was erected at the University of British Columbia, is being torn up to provide more parking space at the University.

The mammoth scale model, occupying a space about 10,000 square feet and which attracted the attention of engineers from many countries, is under the hammer.

Cut Profits Or Perish Firms Told

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston warned yesterday that lumber operators may have to cut their profits on foreign sales and come up with higher quality products at minimum prices for home use if the B.C. lumber industry is to survive.

"With at least 40 cents of every income dollar earned by all British Columbians from all sources within the province originating in the forests our dependency on the successful marketing of our forest products is so crucial as to be at most frightening," he told members of Victoria Rotary Club.

The critical nature of this dependency was greatly intensified by the fact that to an overpowering extent forest trade was dependent upon the export market, said the minister.

"In other words we are required to trade in world markets over which we have no control," he said.

The provincial standard of living would be cut in half without the forest industry, he said.

'ONLY HOPE'

B.C. could not hope for preferential treatment in the highly-competitive forest products field outside Canada, continued Mr. Williston.

"This is accentuated by the possibility of Great Britain being unable to continue Commonwealth preferences after her entry into the European Common Market," he said.

GREATEST CHALLENGE

Individual buyers of B.C. forest products in foreign markets were interested in only one thing — the lowest price for the highest quality.

"In that simple equation lies B.C.'s greatest economic challenge to survival and at the same time, it is no less a challenge to Canada's position as a major world trader," said Mr. Williston.

Japan had the most rapidly rising standard of living in the world but was a small buyer of B.C. forest products because it was hindered by "myriad of legislative restrictions" in her trading with Canada, he added.

CAPT. GEOFFREY D'ARCY

Refugees Survive Fusillade

BERLIN (UPI)—Nine East Germans braved Communist gunfire at dawn today and escaped to West Berlin by crashing their speeding truck into a barbed wire barricade on the border.

The refugees leaped out of the truck when it got stuck at the barricade and ran across the frontier into the American sector.

250 SHOTS FIRED

West Berlin police reported that one of the refugees was injured by the impact of the crash. Communist police fired about 250 shots with rifles and machineguns at the fleeing refugees, but none was hit.

The incident occurred at the Zehlendorf border crossing. "The Communists fired at everything that moved," said a West Berlin policeman.

BOYS SNEAK PAST

Two East German boys, aged 14 and 16, crossed into the French sector during the night by sneaking past Communist border guards and under the barbed-wire entanglement in a style.

Furore Expected Among Officials

By ED COSGROVE

The appeal of Capt. Geoffrey D'Arcy against dismissal from his industrial arts teaching job at Colquitz School has been upheld by a special appeal board, the Colonist learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

Capt. D'Arcy was dismissed for failing to follow the provincial education department curriculum.

It was disclosed that the three-member board, chaired by Vancouver lawyer Harold Tupper, has recommended to the provincial cabinet, acting as a council for public instruction, that Capt. D'Arcy be reinstated.

stated in his job by Victoria school board. Officials have remained mum, refusing to either confirm or deny the report. But it is expected the board's recommendation will reach the desk of Education Minister Leslie Peterson today.

Decision Unanimous

The new recommendation from the Tupper board of reference will probably go before the cabinet within a week.

While such recommendations are usually followed, the cabinet could conceivably reverse the board's decision and uphold Capt. D'Arcy's dismissal.

The board's decision is expected to cause a furore among school board officials. The fired teacher also refused comment until such time as the report of his reinstatement has been confirmed.

The 32-year-old teacher, who lives at 1321 Vimy, has once before successfully appealed a dismissal by the school board. The Colonist learned that the appeal board's decision to recommend reinstatement of Capt. D'Arcy was unanimous.

And indications are that the board may have felt that the announced reason for firing the teacher—failure to abide by the curriculum prescribed by the department of education—may not have been the reason for his dismissal.

Approach Criticized

Capt. D'Arcy's appeal before the special board began late in August and lasted until Sept. 9. More than 15 witnesses appeared before the board to testify.

Their evidence was that Capt. D'Arcy had implemented a more theoretical approach to the study of industrial arts, drafting at the Grade 7 level. Witnesses included senior high school teachers who told the hearing that pupils graduating to their classes from Capt. D'Arcy's class apparently had little practical knowledge of the use of drafting instruments.

The battery of witnesses against the teacher also included Col. Harold J. Strong, government inspector of technical classes, Greater Victoria school superintendent John Gough and the school board's arts supervisor, J. H. Deigleish.

'Refused to Change'

They told the hearing that Capt. D'Arcy had refused to alter his method of teaching to conform with their interpretation of the curriculum suggested by the provincial department of education.

In his own defence, Capt. D'Arcy said he had not changed the intent of the syllabus, but had attempted to instill in his students a "more educationally sound" knowledge of the subject, rather than "mechanistic and superficial" skills in the use of instruments.

His lawyer, J. Alan Baker, told the appeal board that if the dismissal was upheld, it would mean the end of a provincial cabinet.

Lucky Day for Davida

Canada to Welcome Students

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada will play host to 104 students from 27 Commonwealth countries and territories during the current school year under the Commonwealth Scholarship Plan, External Affairs Minister Howard Green announced yesterday.

Green said the selection committee had completed its work, selecting the 104 successful candidates from 231 nominations. The majority of the scholarships was awarded at the post-graduate level for a two-year period.

The students, who will receive grants to cover transportation, tuition and living expenses while in Canada, were now at work in Canadian universities, Green said.

The largest numbers were 19 at Montreal's McGill, 17 at the University of Toronto and 14 at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

In the first year of the scholarship plan during the last school year, only two of the 101 scholarship winners were successful in their studies.

Divers Seek Body Of Missing Skipper

Harbor Searched

CAMPBELL RIVER — Captain of the seiner "Camenita" disappeared here early yesterday and is feared drowned.

James Wadham, Albert Bay, returned to his vessel shortly after midnight and has not been seen since. The "Camenita" tied up behind the Campbell River wharf last weekend to wait out a fishing closure.

Police said skipper Wadham went ashore Tuesday and was taken back to the dock by taxi early yesterday morning. It is believed he may have lost his footing and fallen into the harbor.

A skindiver probed the waters around the seiner and dock yesterday but his search was hampered by poor underwater visibility.

Police said last night that a more extensive search by divers is now being organized.

Police Probing Theft Of $3,000 in Tofino

TOFINO — Royal Canadian Mounted Police in this tiny West Coast community are probing theft of $3,000 worth of merchandise and cash from Tofino Fishing & Trading Co., late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

Store owner Mrs. Grace Hardy said entry was made through a window of the building and that missing merchandise includes rings and watches.

Symphony Rehearses

NANAIMO — A heavy rehearsal schedule is under way for Nanaimo Symphony Orchestra which is preparing for a Dec. 10 concert here.

The group will play selections from the opera Orpheus in the Underworld.

Fifty members of the symphony orchestra will take part in the concert.

The Canadian Opera Company will also produce Orpheus in the Underworld, but as a complete opera, Dec. 6 in Nanaimo.

'Oldest' Oldsters Organize

NANAIMO — Old age pensioners here have decided to affiliate with the Old Age Pensioners' Council.

President Joe Sutton said "it is time we united forces and worked towards a common goal."

The Nanaimo club, with 500 members, is the largest old age pensioners club in Canada. The club also passed a resolution at the recent weekly meeting urging old age pensioners clubs to amalgamate with senior citizens clubs.

Appeal Ahead Of 1960

NANAIMO — United Appeal here has collected $14,000 already, some 10 per cent above last year's figure at this time.

The business canvassers appear to be going above last year's level.

United Appeal canvassers are confident the fund will go over the top this year.

The quota is just over $54,000.

Kekkonen Lays Wreath

OTTAWA (CP) — President Urho Kekkonen of Finland Thursday paid tribute to Canada's war dead.

In brilliant autumn sunshine, watched by a noonday crowd of 2,000 or more, the 61-year-old head of state slowly walked to the base of the National War Memorial here and deposited a large wreath of lilies.

The moving ceremony followed a busy morning for the tall, trim president, who leaves Ottawa this morning following a three-day state visit to Canada's capital.

It started with a 9 a.m. call at the office of Prime Minister Diefenbaker — their first and only formal meeting of Mr. Kekkonen's stay.

Scheduled to last half an hour, the meeting occupied a full hour.

More than 300,000 horses were slaughtered in the Middle East last year because of an epidemic of African horse sickness.

'Expectant Mother' Was Policewoman

VANCOUVER (CP) — A going to an East End house last August on the pretence that she was pregnant and needed help, she said she arranged an illegal operation for $100 with Mrs. Tomluk and returned later with her "girl friend," policewoman Lee Haines.

Mrs. Shapko said she went into a bedroom where instruments were in evidence beside Policewoman Shapko told of the bed.

Jewelry Design Merits Awards by Large Firm

Major awards for excellence and originality of design in diamond rings, to encourage Canada's amateur and professional jewelry designers and craftsmen, have been made by Peoples Credit Jewellers in a ceremony at Toronto.

The awards also are aimed at enhancing the reputation, and increasing the acceptance and use, of Canadian diamond ring designs in both foreign and domestic markets.

Awards totalling $2,000, and Design Award Certificates of Merit, were presented by M. Gerstein, vice-president of Peoples Credit Jewellers.

On congratulating the winners, company president Bernard Gerstein said: "It was highly gratifying to receive such a large number of entries of unexpectedly fine quality. The competition showed beyond doubt that talent abounds in Canada. Other industries might note this and offer similar opportunities in their own field."

Prizes of $500 and $100 were won by Mrs. Sheila Siegelman of Oakville, Ont.

Other award winners included Mrs. Gertrude Doyle, Halifax; John E. Crestes, Montreal; Donald R. Thayer, London, Ont.; D. Myerson, Toronto; F. Beasel, Toronto; Miss E. Divitt, Toronto; Peter Czerzi, Hamilton, Ont.

Heater Causes $1,000 Fire

COURTENAY — Fire damage, totalling $1,000 at the home of Mrs. N. Walmsley when an electric heater ignited a chest of drawers.

The fire was confined to the bedroom in which it started after charring walls and damaging the roof. Smoke damage hit other parts of the house.

Only person in the house when the fire started was 13-year-old Mark Walmsley who turned in the alarm.

Cancer Film Draws 800

COURTENAY — A cancer forum here Wednesday saw more than 800 women gather in the high school auditorium to see the film "Time and Two Women" and to ask questions in the Underworld, but as a complete opera, Dec. 6 in Nanaimo.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING SHOWS WHAT FINISHED LODGE WILL LOOK LIKE WHEN GREEN MOUNTAIN PROJECT IS COMPLETED.

Skiers 'Do-It-Themselves'

How Dreams Come True

By JIM TAYLOR

If Victoria Sno-Birds can ski as well as they can scrounge, they all belong in the Olympic Games.

The Sno-Birds started with nothing but a lease on the slopes of Green Mountain (30 miles by road west of Nanaimo) and a fierce determination to build a lodge there. With no money, no equipment, and no previous experience, they set out seven months ago to raise $10,000 for the job.

It seemed impossible. But this weekend the 170-member club will lay the foundation for a three-storey lodge at the 1,200-foot level of Green Mountain. To get there they will travel over a two-mile stretch of road they hacked out of the slopes themselves, and later this month they will build a lodge they prefabricated themselves in Langford.

It's been a do-it-yourself project with a vengeance. Most of the $5,500 raised since April has come through sale of $75 debentures (repayable in five years at $100), but no money-making project, no matter how small, has been overlooked. A bottle drive netted $100. There have been rummage sales, a raffle, and even a casino night at a member's house. ("I do hope it was legal," one club member reflected.)

But the most amazing part of the whole venture is the driving, boundless enthusiasm the club has been able to generate not only in its membership, but in outsiders, many of whom don't even ski.

FOR NOTHING

One man volunteered to pick up 2,000 board feet of lumber at Port Alberni and deliver it to the mountain. A Nanaimo architect designed the lodge for nothing. A cement company donated 60 sacks of cement and a lumber company chipped in with 50 sheets of plywood.

Club members gave up their weekends for work parties, slogging through deep mud to build a two-mile road from the parking lot to the bank and borrowed $6,500 to purchase a snowmobile, serenely confident that the club will be able to pay him back.

ACTS ACCORDINGLY

The club feels that every cent saved brings the completed project that much closer, and acts accordingly. Excerpts from its monthly newsletter provide a striking chronicle of the project.

One letter instructs members to bring a certain coffee company's coffee bags to the general meeting because "we are only 25 bags away from our target of 285, the total required for obtaining the coffee urn."

OTHER TASKS

The next letter reports that the new urn is in operation. That disposed of, it sets a few other little tasks for the membership.

"To transport the building materials we need a fleet of pickup trucks, tractors, jeeps, etc. Please check to see if you can get one or more for one or two weekends."

"We also require the use of a concrete mixer, several hundred feet of 4" plastic water pipe, and we still need 370 sheets of plywood."

BUILDING BEE

Skiers from Nanaimo, Chetwain and Victoria plan to give up a week of their holidays and go to the site en masse to build the cabin.

The lodge will be finished well enough to be habitable for the November to June season. When it is completely finished it will be a three-storey glassed-in wonder, complete with kitchen, coffee shop, ski shop and sleeping facilities for 70.

FAR FROM OVER

The job is far from over. Thousands of dollars still have to be raised, and it will mean more fund drives and more work.

When it is over, the skiers who sat back and watched will undoubtedly flock to join the Sno-Birds and enjoy the finished product. Strangely enough, that doesn't bother the club.

"We'll let them join," one member said. "If they had joined earlier they wouldn't have worked anyway. There are always laggards."

There aren't many in the Sno-Birds.

Working Like Dogs

Even the dogs worked like dogs to build the road to the ski slopes on Green Mountain. Here Beau helps master Bill Verchere of Ladysmith.

Bayer Sensational With Sub-Par Round

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—George Bayer of Miami, Fla., shot a sensational six-under-par 33-31—64 Thursday to take a one-shot lead in the final round of the $20,000 Ontario golf open.

Bayer played flawless golf as he made six birdies and 12 pars on the 6,800-yard par 36-34—70 Whispering Lake course.

One shot behind Bayer was Jon Gustin of Gladwyne, Pa., who had 32-33—65.

Another long hitter, Rob Nichols of Midland, Tex., was third with 34-33—66.

Tournament favorite Gary Player of South Africa, the masters champion and leading money winner of the year, encountered putting difficulties and had to settle for an even par 34-36—70.

Drakes Given Preview Of Playoff Opponents

Intermediate Football League playoff.

Tomorrow's game is the final contest of the league schedule, and means absolutely nothing. However, it does give the clubs a chance to have one more look at each other before their two-game, total-point playoff Oct. 21 in New Westminster and Oct. 28 in Victoria.

Drakes have had three looks at Royals so far this season, and didn't like any of them. In addition to beating Drakes three times, Royals knocked off UBC Chiefs twice and are undefeated.

However, Drakes are still hopeful, because they have never been at full strength against Royals, with either injuries or absenteeism cutting their roster.

Just Look at Rangers—At Least for While

New York hockey fans may not have too much to cheer about as the National Hockey League schedule unfolds, but at the moment their Rangers are on top of the heap, and the city's largest home-opener crowd in 12 years turned out last night to cheer the club to its second straight victory.

A delighted crowd of 14,065 watched Rangers beat Boston Bruins for the second straight time, 6-3. It left them two points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs, who opened their schedule with a 4-2 victory over the Red Wings at Detroit.

Tomorrow night the Rangers go to Montreal, where coach Doug Harvey faces his old team in the Canadiens' opener. Meanwhile the Bruins help open the season at Toronto.

Andy Bathgate led the way for the Rangers last night with the season's first hat trick.

Camile Henry scored twice and Andy Heberton got the other goal, his second in two games. Bruins enjoyed a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period on rookie Terry Gray's first NHL goal, but Phil Watson, the coach of the Rangers, didn't have much to cheer over in his Bruins' rest of the way.

HEAD INADEQUATE

With former Portland goalie Don Head looking totally inadequate in the Bruins' nets,

	GP	W	L	T	P	A	Pts
New York	2	2	0	0	0	2	4
Boston	2	1	1	0	0	2	2

Rangers sank the Boston club with four goals in the second period and added two more in the third.

Head made a total of 25 stops compared to 27 for Gump Worsley of the Rangers.

Bob Pulford scored the winning goal for Toronto last night. It was something of a pool shot for Pulford, who shot the puck from behind the Detroit net on a power play and watched it bounce off the cushion of Terry Sawchuk's arm into the net.

DULL THROUGHOUT

That made it 3-1 for the Leafs, but Vic Stasiuk cut the margin before the second period ended. The third period was dull throughout, with Dick Duff adding the final Toronto goal with the Detroit net empty in the final minute.

Red Kelly got Toronto's first goal on a pass from Frank Mahovlich, and Eddie Shack scored the second. Ed Litzenberger, picked up from Chicago Black Hawks, opened for Detroit.

HITS POST

Mahovlich, who scored 48 goals last season, broke in on Sawchuk twice in the final period. His first shot was blocked at the last second, and the next one hit a post.

TORONTO 4, DETROIT 1
Toronto—Goal: Sawchuk; defense: Stanley, Horton, Aronson, Baum, Horan, Kelly, Mahovlich, Neve, Krut, Armstrong, Duff, Harris, Pulford, Shack, Stewart, MacMillan.

Old Cougars Get 'Married' Tonight

By BOB TRIMBLE

(Canadian Press Writer)

After a hectic two-year engagement the marriage of the Western Hockey League and California tonight becomes a reality.

The scene will be the spacious 14,300-seat Memorial

Sports Arena. The bride will be Los Angeles Blades, (nee Victoria Cougars) and the groom, the dominant color will be gold.

More than 9,500 fans are expected for the game, the first by a California-based team since 1950 when San Diego, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Fresno withdrew from the Pacific Coast League, forerunners of the WHL.

Thirty-four days later a sequel will unravel at San Francisco when the Seals, also entering the league this season, open their home season against Edmonton Flyers at the 12,000-seat Cow Palace.

Portland Buckaroos who made somewhat of a Cinderella reentry a year ago by winning the playoff championship will help the Blades get under way.

It is the highlight of an opening night schedule that will see all eight clubs in action. The Seals are in Seattle to meet the Totems. Spokane Comets travel to Vancouver to play the Canucks and the Flyers take on Calgary Stampers in Edmonton.

More than 5,000 fans are expected in Edmonton, 4,000 in Seattle and 3,000 in Vancouver.

The California clubs, boasting the largest arenas in the league are expected to lift the overall league attendance mark above 1,000,000 and perhaps challenge the record of 1,105,840 established in 1952-53.

The transfer of the Victoria franchise to Los Angeles, the new outfit at San Francisco and the departure of Winnipeg Warriors, at least for one year, has altered the physical shape of the league.

For the first time since 1950 Canadian clubs are in the minority and now all but Calgary and Edmonton are situated along or near the Pacific coast.

TWO REACTIONS
The league will be divided into two sections with each team playing a 70-game schedule. The Blades, Seals, Buckaroos and Comets will form the southern section and the remaining clubs the northern division. The schedule includes inter-sectional games.

Three new coaches join the league. They are Alf Pike at Calgary, Max McNab at San Francisco and Phil Maloney at Vancouver. Pike saw former WHL service as coach of Winnipeg Warriors three seasons ago. McNab and Maloney, the latter a playing coach, are former winners of the league's most valuable player award. It is their first crack at coaching.

CONNIE WILLIAMS, 25, has been named assistant general manager of Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern Hockey League. She is believed to be the only woman to hold such a post with a professional team. . . . a 3,000-seat addition will be made to Winnipeg Stadium, home of the Blue Bombers. . . . a campus-wide referendum, an opinion poll only, on whether athletics should be racially integrated will be held at University of Texas Oct. 23. . . . fullback Phil King has been put on the disabled list by the New York Giants of the National Football League.

Kalmikoffs Lose, Win

Ivan and Karol Kalmikoff lost their tag team bout to Roy McClarty and Doug Lindsay on Monday last night at Memorial Arena, but retained their Pacific northwest championship, which cannot be taken from them on a technicality.

In other bouts, Karl Kalmikoff and Lindsay fought to a draw. Danno McDonald beat Krusher Kowalski; and John Fott beat Bill Wright.

AN FAME

The United States Macaroni Institute has named Roger Maria macaroni sportsman of the year because he used his noodle Yankee noodle. . . . Emil Zatsepek and his wife. . . . Danno, both former Olympic champions, are en route to Cuba where they will work as athletic instructors.

United Signs Kicker Ace

Victoria United added one of the city's biggest scoring threats to its forward line yesterday with the signing of Volker Stoldt of Victoria Kickers.

Stoldt, who will be used at centre-forward, will miss United's game against North Shore tomorrow at Royal Athletic Park because of the Pacific Coast Soccer League's seven-day waiting rule on transfers.

Manager Wally Milligan also said there is a good chance that another Kickers' star, Antol Major, will sign soon. Addition of the two spenders, he feels, could be just what the goal-starved United forward line needs.

Game time tomorrow is 2 p.m.

Thirteen Students Killed at Football

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—The rising toll in high school football fatalities in the United States is disturbing, Stanford's Jack Curtice, president of the American Football Coaches Association, said Thursday.

"We've certainly got to find out whether any weaknesses in equipment or in training can be overcome so we can better protect these youngsters," Curtice said.

Curtice's comments were made after the 13th high school player death of the young season was reported. The 13th football injury victim was Kenneth Crouse, 15, sophomore at Conrad, Iowa. He died Wednesday night of a brain hemorrhage.

Kenneth was hit over the temple by an opposing player's knee in making a tackle. He was wearing a helmet.

In Los Angeles Dr. Floyd Eastwood of Los Angeles State College said 72 per cent of the fatalities in football come from head injuries.

Dr. Eastwood heads a committee on injuries and fatalities which reports to the coaches association.

"There has been a steady increase year by year in fatalities from blows on the head, and further improvements in the helmet seem to be necessary," Dr. Eastwood said.

He reported that a helmet being developed at Cornell University had worked well in preventing concussions.

Boys Stabbed In Grid Riot

BOSTON (AP)—Three youths were stabbed, a girl was pushed over a wall and about 30 others suffered less serious injuries in a wild riot at a high school football doubleheader Thursday.

Two of the youths were reported in serious condition at city hospital. The girl suffered facial injuries.

About 30 others were injured less seriously in the brawl in which knives, stones and beer cans were used.

Rumors 'Old Hat'

No Property Interest Says Angry Mayor

View Street Bylaw Up for Review Soon

By TED SHACKLEFORD

An angry Mayor Percy Scurrah yesterday flatly denied rumors that he has any interest in property on View Street where the city plans to build one of two off-street parking garages.

"As you know, this parking bylaw is now up for action," Mayor Scurrah began at a meeting of city council.

SAME OLD LIE

"The same old lie that was used against me in the last election two years ago—that I owned property on View Street or was interested in property—is being whispered about town at the present time."

"I own no property on View Street nor have any interest in any, nor have any of my relatives at all."

Mayor Scurrah asked city council to appoint the city's advisory parking commission to investigate the sites available and make recommendations to council.

ALDERMEN HEARD

Two aldermen—Millard Mooney and Michael Griffin—told Mr. Scurrah they had heard the rumor and had checked it, finding it false.

Ald. Arthur Dowell commented that two years ago, when city council was proposing an off-street parking garage and pedestrian mall for the View Street area he was appointed by council to investigate rumors which also proved false.

QUASH RUMORS

Mayor Scurrah told council he felt that appointment of the advisory parking commission would "quash" the rumors.

His suggestion was approved by council.

The council also decided to change the original plan for construction of the buildings.

Original plan was to ask contractors to submit designs for the buildings, together with bids. Council yesterday decided to have the building designed and then call tenders only.

Runway Bids Asked This Month Chatterton Reassures Victoria

Tenders will definitely be called before the end of October for long-promised extension of the main runway at Patricia Bay airport, George Chatterton, Esquimalt-Saanich MP, assured an impatient Victoria last night.

The project costing an estimated $234,000 will include paving a 1,000-foot extension to the 5,000-foot runway and removing topsoil and grading another 1,000 feet for future extension, he said.

With the runway project, the federal government will be committed this year to spend more than $1,000,000 on the airport.

Tenders will be called before the end of the year for an $800,000 new administration building which will be built at the south side of the airport.

New Y Stays On Hill

Ald. Michael Griffin failed yesterday in an attempt to have city council ban construction of the proposed new YMTCWA building within the Cathedral Hill precinct.

"This is not generally acceptable to the people at large," he said. "Many people think this type of facility does not fit within the concept."

MOTION DEFEATED

Mayor Percy Scurrah supported Ald. Griffin's view and Ald. A. W. Toone seconded a motion not to allow provision for construction of the building in new precinct zoning regulations, but the motion was defeated.

After the motion was lost, Ald. Griffin attempted to have the zoning altered to prevent use of the proposed building as an accommodation centre, but this motion was defeated, too.

ACCEPTED BY COUNCIL

With few amendments, the special bylaw to establish the Cathedral Hill precinct by special zoning was accepted by council and given preliminary readings.

Fire Levels Empty House On Malahat

A spectacular fire that could be seen for miles razed a small house near the Malahat summit last night leaving only a brick chimney standing.

Shawnigan RCMP received a call at 7:15 p.m. but although they were on the scene in a few minutes they could not save the vacant dwelling.

The home, which overlooks the site of the original Malahat Lookout, was owned by Johann Winter of Vancouver.

A second dwelling directly below the home that burned last night was destroyed by fire last February.

Police said cause of the fire was under investigation. Dozens of Saanich Peninsula residents could see the blaze across Saanich Inlet.

Newest Birthday Plan Returned to Advisers

City council, under fire for delay in announcing an official centennial project with 1962 only 78 days away, yesterday asked its centennial committee to have a look at another suggested project.

The move will further delay a final decision on just what the city's centennial project will be.

NEW CITY HALL

The project—creation of a centennial park and square in the Cathedral Hill area, construction of a new city hall to include accommodation for the Greater Victoria School Board, and creation of a Victorian museum in Craigdarroch Castle—was referred to council's city hall committee for consideration.

No report or recommendation was made by the city hall committee yesterday but Ald. Arthur Dowell, chairman, said he hoped a recommendation could be made in the near future.

The new project which council wants the centennial committee to consider is construction of a senior citizens' recreation centre in downtown Victoria.

Suggested recently by Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, the plan was brought to the attention of city council yesterday by a letter from Glen Hamilton, executive director of the Silver Threads Service.

"Such a centre would provide a fitting memorial to the pioneers who built this community and would be available for use by all our citizens as they reached retirement age," Mr. Hamilton wrote.

"Our own experiments on a smaller scale in operating a social centre for elderly folk have convinced us of its tremendous value."

Ald. Dowell referred to criticisms that his committee has been inactive and said he felt aldermen would like to know what is going on.

"Before we thought it advisable to bring any recommendations to city council."

Annual presentation banquet of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Saanichton Agricultural Hall. Fair prizes will be awarded.

there are certain procedures to go through," he said.

"There are other things in mind that we want to be finally settled before we make a recommendation to council."

"The delay was through no fault in the committee and I want that definitely understood, and I want it understood that we want things to be done as rapidly as possible."

"We are hoping in the very near future that we will have definite answers to certain things we want to know and until such time as we get those answers I don't think we can make a report to council."

No Serious Injuries

Safety Belts Show Worth As Rain Produces Mishaps

Rain and wet streets produced a series of traffic accidents in Greater Victoria yesterday, sending a number of people to hospital. None was seriously injured.

Gordon H. Fraser and W. H. Wilson, both from HMCS Ottawa, were riding in a car driven by Fraser which apparently skidded on Esquimalt Road at Bowlsby Place and knocked out a power pole and a hydrant.

Both were rushed to HMCS Naden hospital, where Wilson was released almost at once and Fraser admitted for temporary observation with head abrasions.

CAR SIDESWIPED

An hour later, a truck driven by Johannes Dejong, 1156 View, and a car driven by Joseph M. Reichmuth, 1636 Amphion, side-swiped while passing to a turn at Collinson and Rupert.

Reichmuth was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital for observation with cuts to the head, arm and neck. A passenger in his car, Margaret Richlin, 130 Joseph, suffered shock and was released.

CROSSED INTO PATH

Police said the boy crossed from behind one moving car into the path of a passing vehicle driven by Eunice Beryl Howell, 4022 Palmetto.

The boy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by Oak Bay police, and held for observation. Police said his injuries could have been much more serious, except that a nearby road excavation had slowed all traffic in the 30-mile zone to about five miles an hour.

Safety belts played a part in another accident at Hillside and Fifth when two cars stopped behind a car waiting to turn left and a third car was unable to stop in time, striking the car ahead.

Gregg Barlow, 9, 3853 Locarno Lane, was sitting sideways in the last car, and bruised his ribs on the dashboard. Driver was his mother, Mrs. Shirley Barlow.

Driver of the car ahead was Mrs. Margaret Birckett, 1948 Waterloo, with her husband, Robert, a passenger.

Both were wearing safety belts and were uninjured.

"We always buckle them on—tight—even when we're driving only half a block," Mrs. Birckett told police. "It's become a habit since I was injured in a crash some time ago."

Police said cause of the fire was under investigation. Dozens of Saanich Peninsula residents could see the blaze across Saanich Inlet.

Griffin Apologizes On Offer for Land

Ald. Michael Griffin yesterday publicly apologized for remarks he made during a meeting of city council Friday.

But other members of council, who made similar remarks, did not apologize.

Ald. Griffin referred to an offer of $45,000 for land which the city had agreed to sell to Blake Construction Ltd., Vancouver, for $35,000.

At the time the offer was received by city council, Ald. Griffin suggested that the offer was not genuine.

"I understand this offer was, in fact, a bona fide offer," he said yesterday, "and the person's sincerity is shown by the fact that she might still invest in our city."

Envoy Takes Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department said yesterday it hopes to resume exploratory, ambassador-level Berlin talks with Russia "in the very near future."

Meanwhile, a department spokesman said, officials are preparing for a new and intensified phase of Allied planning in Washington during the next few weeks.

CONSULTATIONS

Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Russia, has been here for consultations during the past week and plans to be back in Moscow next Tuesday. That day marks the opening of the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress, at which Premier Khrushchev is expected to make some major speeches on Berlin.

President Kennedy told his press conference Thursday he hoped Thompson would try to sound out the Kremlin on Berlin, taking up where recent talks here with Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko left off.

ALLIES TO MEET

State department spokesman Lincoln White said top Berlin experts from the foreign offices of Britain, West Germany and France may come here soon to join Allied strategy talks which have been going on at the ambassador level nearly every day.

Conscripts To Stay On?

BONN (UPI)—Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss disclosed yesterday that West Germany's military conscription period will probably be extended soon from 12 to 18 months.

The government has already retained for three more months the 30,000 soldiers who were to have concluded their military duty Oct. 1.

D'ARCY'S APPEAL UPHELD BY BOARD

Cut Profits Or Perish Firms Told

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston warned yesterday that lumber operators may have to cut their profits on foreign sales and come up with higher quality products at minimum prices for home use if the B.C. lumber industry is to survive.

"With at least 40 cents of every income dollar earned by all British Columbians from all sources within the province originating in the forests our dependency on the successful marketing of our forest products is so crucial as to be almost frightening," he told members of Victoria Rotary Club.

The critical nature of this dependency was greatly intensified by the fact that to an overpowering extent forest trade was dependent upon the export market, said the minister.

"In other words we are required to trade in world markets over which we have no control," he said.

The provincial standard of living would be cut in half without the forest industry, he said.

"ONLY HOPE"
B.C. could not hope for preferential treatment in the highly-competitive forest products field outside Canada, continued Mr. Williston.

"This is accentuated by the possibility of Great Britain being unable to continue Commonwealth preferences after her entry into the European Common Market," he said.

"GREATEST CHALLENGE"
Individual buyers of B.C. forest products in foreign markets were interested in only one thing—the lowest price for the highest quality.

"In that simple equation lies B.C.'s greatest economic challenge to survival and at the same time, it is no less of a challenge to Canada's position as a major world trader," said Mr. Williston.

Japan had the most rapidly rising standard of living in the world but was a small buyer of B.C. forest products because it was hindered by "a myriad of legislative restrictions" in her trading with Canada, he added.

CAPT. GEOFFREY D'ARCY

Advice Goes To Cabinet

By ED COSGROVE

The appeal of Capt. Geoffrey D'Arcy against dismissal from his industrial arts teaching job at Colquitz School has been upheld by a special appeal board, the Colonist learned yesterday from an authoritative source.

Capt. D'Arcy was dismissed for failing to follow the provincial education department curriculum.

It was disclosed that the three-member board, chaired by Vancouver lawyer Harold Tupper, has recommended to the provincial cabinet, acting as a council for public instruction, that Capt. D'Arcy be reinstated in his job by Victoria school board.

Officials have remained mum, refusing to either confirm or deny the report. But it is expected the board's recommendation will reach the desk of Education Minister Leslie Peterson today.

Decision Unanimous

The new recommendation from the Tupper board of reference will probably go before the cabinet within a week.

While such recommendations are usually followed, the cabinet could conceivably reverse the board's decision and uphold Capt. D'Arcy's dismissal.

The board's decision is expected to cause a furor among school board officials. The fired teacher also refused comment until such time as the report of his reinstatement has been confirmed.

The 32-year-old teacher, who lives at 1321 Vimy, has once before successfully appealed a dismissal by the school board.

The Colonist learned that the appeal board's decision to recommend reinstatement of Capt. D'Arcy was unanimous. And indications are that the board may have felt that the announced reason for firing the teacher—failure to abide by the curriculum prescribed by the department of education—may not have been the reason for his dismissal.

Approach Criticized

Capt. D'Arcy's appeal before the special board began late in August and lasted until Sept. 9. More than 15 witnesses appeared before the board to testify.

Their evidence was that Capt. D'Arcy had implemented a more theoretical approach to the study of industrial arts drafting at the Grade 7 level.

Witnesses included senior high school teachers who told the hearing that pupils graduating to their classes from Capt. D'Arcy's class apparently had little practical knowledge of the use of drafting instruments.

The battery of witnesses against the teacher also included Col. Harold J. Strong, government inspector of technical classes, Greater Victoria school superintendent John Gough and the school board's arts supervisor, J. H. Dalgleish.

'Refused to Change'

They told the hearing that Capt. D'Arcy had refused to alter his method of teaching to conform with their interpretation of the curriculum suggested by the provincial department of education.

In his own defence, Capt. D'Arcy said he had not changed the intent of the syllabus, but had attempted to instill in his students a "more educationally sound" knowledge of the subject, rather than "mechanistic and superficial" skills in the use of instruments.

His lawyer, J. Alan Baker, told the appeal board that if the dismissal was upheld, it would mean the end of a teaching career that spanned 32 years.

But also at stake during the hearing was the question of whether teachers are bound to the letter of the suggested syllabus laid out by the department of education or whether their own interpretations on the suggestions.

Capt. D'Arcy figured in similar proceedings in 1955 when he was fired by the school board on the grounds that he showed insolence in letters to Mr. Gough.

After a prolonged hearing before another board of reference, he was reinstated by the provincial cabinet.

Refugees Survive Fusillade

BERLIN (UPI)—Nine East Germans braved Communist gunfire at dawn today and escaped to West Berlin by crashing their speeding truck into a barbed wire barricade on the border.

The refugees leaped out of the truck when it got stuck at the barricade and ran across the frontier into the American sector.

250 SHOTS FIRED
West Berlin police reported that one of the refugees was injured by the impact of the crash. Communist police fired about 250 shots with rifles and machineguns at the fleeing refugees, but none was hit.

The incident occurred at the Zehlendorf border crossing. "The Communists fired at everything that moved," said a West Berlin policeman.

BOYS SNEAK PAST
Two East German boys, aged 14 and 16, crossed into the French sector during the night by sneaking past Communist border guards and under the barbed-wire entanglement Indian-style.

U.S. May Restart A-Tests in Air

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The United States said yesterday it will be forced to re-examine its position on nuclear tests in the atmosphere if the Soviet Union persists with its current series.

Ambassador Arthur Dean said the world no longer can put its trust in a voluntary moratorium because of Russia's "callous disregard of its obligations" in resuming nuclear explosions in the air.

ONLY INSURANCE
Dean said the only insurance against the threat of nuclear war and spreading radioactivity fallout from tests is an international test ban treaty under effective controls.

READY TO SIGN
"The United States and the United Kingdom are ready to sign such a treaty today, tomorrow, any time," he said. "If the Soviet Union agrees to such a treaty with us, then all tests of all kinds—in the air, underground, under water—can cease at once, and further nuclear risks to humanity will also cease."

NO ACTION TAKEN
Dean spoke to the General Assembly's political committee during a procedural debate on whether to consider U.S.-British and Indian proposals on nuclear tests before a Soviet proposal on general and complete disarmament.

The committee adjourned until this afternoon without taking any action on the proposals.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE
Dean said the Soviet Union was preparing for its current tests while its representatives negotiated on a test ban treaty in Geneva. He told the committee, "The Soviet tests took us by complete surprise, as I am sure they did the rest of the world."

"We cannot count on a voluntary moratorium any more," he said.

Fallout Affects Food As Red Tests Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia exploded another nuclear device in the atmosphere yesterday as radioactive fallout from the 20-odd Soviet blasts began showing up in food supplies.

The public health service reported amounts of radioactive iodine 131 found in milk samples from major cities in Louisiana, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi and Missouri.

Radioactive iodine in food is of special concern because it settles in the thyroid of children, among others, and may cause cancer if it is present for a considerable time.

Radio Reports Gaglardi Thinking About Quitting

VANCOUVER (CP)—Radio station CKNW quotes Highway Minister Gaglardi as saying he is thinking seriously of dropping out of politics.

Reporter Al Davidson said Mr. Gaglardi made the statement in a tape-recorded interview during the last week.

He quoted the minister as saying he would not quit "in the heat of battle," but would give it serious consideration after his trial in Kamloops on a charge of driving without due consideration for the rights and safety of others.

The trial date is to be set Oct. 19.

Mr. Gaglardi left here Wednesday on a Canadian Pacific Airlines jet flight to Tokyo.

Costly Model of Fraser Torn Up for UBC Cars

VANCOUVER (CP)—A $500,000 scale model of the Fraser River which gained world-wide fame when it was erected at the University of British Columbia, is being torn up to provide more parking space at the university.

The mammoth scale model, occupying a space about 10,000 square feet and which attracted the attention of engineers from many countries, is under the hammer. The model depicts the lower 35 miles of the Fraser. It has long been regarded as one of the most important research projects in Canada, detailed down to electronically-controlled tides, currents and winds. International engineers applied knowledge to projects in many parts of the world.
